SBDR Hurricane Sandy Update

Friday, November 2, the 72 hour mark passed for the SBDR response due to super storm Sandy. In that time frame, an Area Command and 5 Incident Commands have been established in affected areas. Mobile kitchens are open and currently have the capacity to prepare 170,000 meals. By Sunday, an additional 100,000 meal capacity will be operational. Currently, 25 recovery units are working in Maryland, West Virginia, New Jersey, New York and New England. Largely due to the tireless work of DR volunteers, Southern Baptist response to the storm is ahead of schedule.

Praise God for the work that has already been accomplished in such a short amount of time. Praise God for those who have and will volunteer to respond. Pray for the safety of the volunteers who are already serving and for those en route to serve in affected areas. Pray they will proclaim the praises of the One who has sent them to accomplish the monumental task at hand.

Large Task Ahead
On Thursday, November 1, all large capacity mobile kitchens in the DR fleet east of the Rocky Mountains were asked to mobilize in response to Hurricane Sandy. NAMB trustees authorized the entity to cover the travel expenses for state conventions that need assistance in mobilizing their DR teams to the region. This will allow SBDR to meet the goal of preparing a minimum of 400,000 meals a day by Monday, November 5.

Fritz Wilson, North American Mission Board Disaster Relief executive director, shared with state DR directors on Friday during a conference call, “Thanks for taking a step of faith and committing resources for this unprecedented response. We kicked the door holding us down. God will do some miraculous things through this."

DR units are headed to Raritan Valley Baptist Church, Edison, NJ for staging. Mike Flannery, NY state DR director, has been working diligently to overcome challenges in NY to make way for feeding units to arrive in the state this weekend. Teams from AR, MI and MO will arrive Friday with additional units arriving on Saturday.

Eddie Blackmon, DR liaison stationed at the national headquarters of The American Red Cross (ARC), thanked state DR directors for doing a "great job of getting teams in location despite some frustrations. NY is a difficult place but we are going to learn a lot of great lessons." Blackmon shared that ARC is already asking for more meals but SBDR will wait to commit until the 400,000 a day count is met. He assured state directors, "teams coming in will have an opportunity to serve."
