Cass County Emergency Management provides an integrated emergency management system that prepares Cass County for an emergency or disaster. Four phases or principals are utilized to develop this comprehensive approach.

Planning: This phase develops the plans used by communities during an emergency or disaster. It looks at the hazards within a community to determine the risks that could impact the population. Based upon the hazards and risks, a generic plan is developed which can be followed in any emergency or disaster. It provides a guide for all responding agencies, both public and private. Some common hazards planned for within Cass County are flooding, tornadoes, winter storms, chemical storage and transportation accidents.

Mitigation: If certain hazards or risks can be minimized prior to the emergency or disaster, it can significantly reduce or eliminate the necessary response. An example of mitigation is building an earthen dike to protect the community from flooding.

Response: The mobilization of resources to meet an emergency or disaster. Based upon the plan developed, a coordinated response can be activated to save lives, protect property and prevent damage to the environment. It is not always possible to avoid an emergency or disaster, but one can hopefully lessen its impact.

Recovery: The period following an emergency or disaster that gathers the resources to allow a community to return to near normal activities. During this recovery phase a community may have an opportunity to change or rebuild in such a manner to further reduce the risks to the community. That takes planning which identifies what mitigating actions could lessen the response and the need to recover.

Fargo, North Dakota in Flood Emergency Mode

(March 22, 2009) Christian Emergency Network (CEN) seeks the Church to pray for effective emergency preparedness systems now in high gear in Fargo, North Dakota and surrounding countryside. Flooding of the Red River dividing Fargo, ND and Moorhead, MN, along with many smaller rivers has begun and is expected to mushroom by Thursday if not before. Emergency management systems in ND and MN are highly organized and effective, especially having learned so much from the 1997 flood that received national attention.

Many area churches have dispatched teams to help their church families sandbag, and to help the city protect key flooding areas. Work has been occurring for several days. The Salvation Army and other first responder groups are providing shuttle service, food, bathroom breaks, and key communication updates. Public information meetings have been occuring; TV and radio have been on air with regular updates and volunteer instructions. The entire Fargo area has taken this flood preparedness seriously and are heavily involved but...

Complicating the situation this year is the fact that ND has had so much snow, that ditches and many rivers are still frozen and the flow of water from overland flooding and from rivers presents serious concern. Farmers and national guardmen have been chopping snow out of the ditches to free up water flow, both in Fargo and the surrounding countryside. Sandbags and equipment have been pre–positioned for many days, but sandbags cannot be used if they're frozen, and they cannot be placed on top of snow and ice.

County and city roads are already being closed. Universities, high schools, and many businesses are sending their students and employees to assigned sand bagging areas. There is 24–hour activity in light of rain occuring Sunday/Monday, with snow again expected Tues/Wed and temperatures below freezing predicted for later in the week. Emergency response teams from surrounding counties and states are en route to Fargo.

Though in preparedness mode for several days now, the affected counties are now addressing the latest from the National Weather Service that puts the crisis occuring 1 day earlier than expected, and that the temperary dikes need to be higher than earlier announced. The Red River (flowng north and thus carrying with it all the water from south of Fargo) is now expected to crest 41 feet above flood stage, and will likely crest several times within the next few weeks, depending on additional rain and snow.

Overland flooding, the real crisis of the '97 story, will again be a major piece to this 2009 early spring flood story.

Be in prayer for God to protect this area, and that His Church will continue to be effective in the Fargo area –– both in helping others, and through sharing the comfort and truths of Jesus Christ in the midst of facing this flood.

Emergency shelter nearing completion
Wednesday, February 25, 2009
Andrea Domaskin, Forum Communications Co.
From the outside, Fargo's new emergency homeless shelter is an unassuming one–story building with a brown–stone face and long cinder–block sides.

Inside, though, workers are nearly finished transforming part of the city–owned building at 1519 1st Ave. S. into the Gladys Ray Shelter.

The facility may start accepting overnight guests this week, Shelter Executive Director Jan Eliassen said.

It's designed for homeless people who cannot stay at other shelters, often because they've been drinking.

Walls throughout the shelter are painted shades of tan and green. A reception area awaits furniture and a phone that guests can use to make calls.

Separate bathrooms for men and women and empty dormitory–style sleeping rooms are down a hallway. There's space for 25 men and 10 women.

The shelter is pleasant, but not luxurious.

City commissioners in October narrowly approved bids totaling $684,500 to remodel the shelter and Centre Inc., a separate city detox center that's under construction at the back of the building. The detox center is on track for an April finish, Eliassen said.

Shelter furnishings were not included in the bids.

Eide Bailly donated used office furniture to the shelter when it moved to another location, said Dan Mahli, a Fargo senior planner who is involved with the shelter.

Churches have donated blankets, towels, pillow cases and similar items, and Churches United for the Homeless, a Moorhead shelter, offered extra supplies.

“It’s really being embraced by the community, and that’s incredibly rewarding,” said City Commissioner Linda Coates, who was driving Friday with a rocking chair in her van. She plans to donate it to the shelter.

There are no beds. Eliassen said overnight guests will sleep on mats.

“It’s a funding issue, and as the shelter itself develops, beds are certainly not out of the question,” she said.

The shelter will be open only at night at first, with six or seven total staff members, Eliassen said. She plans to transition to a 24–hour shelter.

Though the building is city owned, the shelter is expected to eventually be run by a nonprofit organization with a federal 501(c)(3) status, City Administrator Pat Zavoral said.

Operating money comes from grants and other sources, not city general fund dollars, he said.

The shelter is designed as a “front door” for chronically homeless people who cannot stay in other shelters and who have been unable to cycle out of homelessness, Mahli said.

Along with providing a safe place to stay, shelter employees will work with the Fargo Housing and Redevelopment Authority and Southeast Human Services to connect shelter users to services that might keep them off the streets, Mahli said.

Gary Groberg, executive director of Churches United, said the facility can reach people that his shelter simply can’t.

His shelter asks intoxicated people to go to Clay County’s detox center, but they often don’t want to ride there in either a police car or a taxi.

Because the Gladys Ray Shelter will be attached to Centre Inc., intoxicated people will be able to go to detox without leaving the building, he said.

If they’ve had a few drinks but don’t need detox, they can stay in a separate ward until they’re sober.

“When they walk though that shelter door, they won’t have to leave again,” Groberg said. “I think, hopefully, that will encourage people to use that shelter.”

FM Humane Society asks:

“PLEASE DON’T FORGET TO PREPARE YOUR ANIMAL COMPANIONS for the flood”

As we are getting ready for a possible flood, FM Humane Society is asking pet owners not to forget to get their animals companions ready;

1. Please be prepared; make plans for your beloved animal companions

2. Find a safe place for your beloved animal companions ahead of time such as family and friends out of the area, hotels/motels that accept pets and if necessary make arrangements for their stay in a safe place away from the flooded areas ahead of time. The only local shelter in the area is the FM Humane Society and with only 9 dog kennels and 17 cat kennels, FM humane Society will not be able to board many animal companions if at all since they are already operating at full capacity

3. Make sure your pets are wearing up to date identification at all times

4. Similar to your family's emergency supply kit, your pet will also need supplies for survival. Items to include in your kit; Food; at least three day supply of food Water; at least three days of water reserved just for your pet, kept in an airtight container Medicines and medical records: Collar with ID tag, harness and leash Current photos and description of your pets Pet carrier, kitty litter, Familiar items, i.e., favorite toys, treats or bedding

5. If you can leave early, do not wait for a mandatory evacuation order. An unnecessary trip is far better than waiting too long to leave safely with your pets.

Emergency food pantry requests community help

In order to keep pace with the demand for food, the Emergency Food Pantry of Fargo is asking for food donations.

Requests for food have increased because of the flood, according to a news release. The pantry provided food for 171 people on Monday, an increase of 25 percent. At the same time, a major Boy Scout food drive was postponed, which has reduced the pantry's food supply, the release stated.

The Emergency Food Pantry is asking residents to donate food at the baskets located in local grocery stores and churches. Cash donations can be sent to the Emergency Food Pantry, PO Box 5363, Fargo ND 58105.

For those with emergency food needs, the pantry can fill requests only by referral. Referrals can come from social service agencies, churches or similar organizations.

For more information, contact Emergency Food Pantry Coordinator Linda Clark at (701) 237–9337 or (701) 280–1817.

Great Plains Food Bank accepting donations for Minot flood victims
The Great Plains Food Bank serve as the central collection point for donations of nonperishable food, personal care items and cleaning supplies to help residents in Minot and the surrounding area affected by flooding.

FARGO — The Great Plains Food Bank announced Thursday it will serve as the central collection point for donations of nonperishable food, personal care items and cleaning supplies to help residents in Minot and the surrounding area affected by flooding.

The products will be used for those seeking help at shelters and mobile feeding units, during clean–up efforts and at food pantries and other charitable feeding programs expected to see increased demand because of the flood.

"Whether it's a few items or a few pallets, we know how passionately the Cass–Clay community responds to crisis," Steve Sellent, program director for the food bank, stated in a news release. "With the severity of this disaster, we know that a tremendous amount of resources will be needed in the Minot region in the days and weeks ahead."

Items may be dropped off at the Great Plains Food Bank at 1720 3rd Ave. N. in Fargo. Hours are 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, noon to 5 p.m. Sunday and during regular business hours starting Monday.

The items will be sorted, and the first truckload of food is scheduled to arrive this morning in Minot.

An estimated 15 or more semi–loads will be distributed to the Minot region through donations from various food banks, food industry donors and items collected from the community, the release stated.

To volunteer for the effort, call the Great Plains Food Bank at (701) 232–6219.

Food donations also will be collected through July at Fargo–Moorhead's six Hornbacher's stores, four Sunmart stores, two Cash Wise Foods stores and three Walmart stores. Collection barrels will be clearly marked at the stores' front entrances.

Feeding Hope
The Great Plains Food Bank touches the lives of more than 52,000 children, seniors and working families each year who struggle with, or are at risk of hunger. Each year over 5 million pounds of surplus food is donated by local, regional and national food industry partners. This food is then distributed to people in need through our statewide network of 230 member food shelves, emergency shelters, soup kitchens and other charitable feeding program in 80 communities.

Current Updates:
March 26, 2009

Currently, Lutheran Social Service of Minnesota is calling on congregations statewide to mobilize volunteer teams to prepare for deployment to the Red River Valley for clean–up and longer–term recovery work.

Following a significant natural disaster, Lutheran Social Service of Minnesota works in affected–areas over many months, sometimes years, to help Minnesotans in the immediate aftermath of a disaster and longer–term rebuilding recovery.

We provide case management services to help local residents navigate paperwork, access loans, make important decisions about their future and coordinate volunteer teams to rebuild homes over the long–term. Volunteers may be needed for this work in coming weeks.

Lutheran Social Service of Minnesota also trains volunteer teams to offer Camp Noah, a week–long, faith–based day camp designed to help elementary–age children recover emotionally and spiritually after a flood disaster.

Congregations that are interested in assembling a Camp Noah team or volunteering for clean–up and rebuilding recovery efforts are encouraged to sign up with us above.

Individual contributions from the community are how Lutheran Social Service of Minnesota funds its disaster relief efforts. Donations can be received online or by mailing a check payable to Lutheran Social Service of Minnesota, 2485 Como Avenue, Saint Paul, MN 55108. Please designate the gift to Disaster Relief.

Thank you for all your gifts of support as we help our neighbors in the Red River Valley.

Red River Flooding: Update

Red Cross Moves Supplies into North Dakota as Rising Flood Waters Threaten Trailers Filled with Cots, Blankets, Meals Begin Arriving in Fargo

As residents of the Red River valley prepare for potentially record flooding, the American Red Cross is moving into position to provide help where needed. More than 24,000 prepackaged meals are expected to arrive today, along with thousands of cots, blankets and toiletry kits.

These supplies are expected to be used for evacuation shelters, which may open within the next 48 to 72 hours, depending on weather conditions. In addition, the Red Cross is gearing up for an extended relief operation, placing volunteers from around the nation on stand by to move to North Dakota when needed.

The Red Cross already has five mobile feed trucks in the area providing food and drinks for the volunteer crews racing to fill 1.9 million sandbags needed to fight the flood waters. The city has set up Sandbag Central, where machines fill sandbags around the clock. About 400,000 to 500,000 bags must be filled each day to reach the goal of 1.9 million by the end of the week, according to local officials.

Major flooding hit the area in 1997, after which a levee system was built to protect the city of Fargo. However, weekend storms increased the flood threat and sped up emergency preparations in the Red River Valley. Flood stage is 18 feet, and some forecasters are reporting the river could rise as high as 52 feet above flood level over the next week, worse than conditions in 1997.

The Salvation Army Continues Fight Against Fargo Flood

March 23, 2009 - The Salvation Army continues to provide food, hydration, and emotional/spiritual care to residents of the Fargo/Moorhead area as they struggle to defend their community against looming flood waters that could cause mass devastation. (Click here for photos.)

Since Friday, 53 Salvation Army staff and volunteers have served 5,750 meals, 9,500 snacks and 13,000 drinks to thousands of volunteers as they fill sand bags and build levies to ward off a Red River flood expected to crest at 40 feet - 22 feet above flood stage, and nearly a foot higher than the historic Fargo flood of 1997.

Mobile feeding units (canteens) deployed from Bismarck, Brainerd, Fergus Falls, the Twin Cities and Willmar are roving neighborhood streets. Another canteen is fixed at Fargo's garbage utility - or "Sandbag Central" - where legions of volunteers are filling an estimated 25,000 sandbags per hour.

The Salvation Army and the American Red Cross are working in collaboration to meet the demands of the community.

“The Salvation Army’s operation is vital to supporting the efforts of saving our community,” said Captain Adam Moore, administrator of the Fargo Salvation Army. “The propensity for great property loss is more and more evident with each foot the river rises. There is also great concern for the emotional and spiritual needs of the community, as this is one of several 100–year floods we’ve faced in recent years.”

To date, The Salvation Army has spent more than $20,000 on this effort. To donate, call 800–SAL–ARMY or click the button below. Designate your donation “Fargo Flood.”

United Way establishes fund for long–term flood recovery

Fargo - United Way of Cass–Clay has established a long–term flood recovery fund. The newly established United Way of Cass–Clay 2009 Long–Term Flood Recovery Fund is now accepting donations. The fund has been established to assist with unmet needs of individuals and families affected by the 2009 flood. Dollars will be used to re–establish stability, safety and security for individuals and families throughout the Cass and Clay county area.

There are three ways for individuals to give to the United Way of Cass–Clay 2009 Long–Term Flood Recovery Fund. Individuals can:

–give online by logging on to www.uwcc.net and clicking on “Donate Now,”
–call the United Way of Cass–Clay office at 701–237–5050 and process donations with a credit card –or mail checks to:

United Way of Cass–Clay,
PO Box 1609
Fargo, ND 58103–1609

Please make checks payable to United Way of Cass–Clay and indicate “2009 Flood Recovery” in the memo. A printable 2009 Long–Term Flood Recovery Fund Donation Form is also available online at www.uwcc.net.

The United Way of Cass–Clay 2009 Flood Recovery Fund has been established to help families in need of long–term recovery assistance. The fund is designed to address unmet needs that remain AFTER FEMA and insurance claims have been processed. United Way of Cass–Clay will work collaboratively with area non–profit agency case managers who specialize in disaster recovery to distribute the funds as needed.

The mission of United Way of Cass–Clay is to bring people together to create lasting change that will improve lives.

For more information please contact Kristina Hein, Communications Director, at (c) 701–388–4660 and visit www.uwcc.net.

Sandbagging volunteers should report to points

Fargo still desperately needs volunteers for sandbagging, and they should report to designated points, officials said this morning.
In south Fargo, volunteers should report to Hope Lutheran Church, 3636 25th St. S., and First Assembly Church, 3401 25th St. S. Parking is available.
Buses will shuttle volunteers into the neighborhoods where sandbaggers are needed.

In north Fargo, volunteers should report to the Fargodome. Buses will take volunteers to Sandbag Central and into the neighborhoods.
North Dakota State University students, faculty and staff were urged to report to the Memorial Union bus shelter to volunteer.
