HAITI-NEWS FROM THE FIELD: 30 days later… A letter from Fr. Rick Frechette
On the one month anniversary of the January 12 earthquake, we wanted to share this letter from one of our local partners in Haiti-doctor and community organizer Father Rick Frechette. In Kind/Product Donations
One of the most compelling images of a relief operation is an air drop into a remote region of a poor country, or an area ravaged by natural or man-made disaster. That sturdy iconic crate carries far more than urgently needed supplies. It brings hope for the recipients—made possible by the generous corporations providing materials and support to make the delivery possible.

Operation USA's logo of a DC-3 airplane plays to that symbolism, but behind the symbol is the day-to-day running of a materials-based relief program and the importance of what goes inside the box. Our material aid program is dependent on listening to the needs of the communities we work with; reliable partners at home and abroad; and sending aid in the most expeditious and economical way. Over the past 30 years, we have matched materials with real–time needs around the world—delivering $350 million in relief and development aid to 99 countries.

Operation USA maintains a 24,000 sq. ft California Board of Pharmacy–licensed warehouse at the Port of Los Angeles and a 5,000 sq. ft warehouse in the Port of San Francisco where donated items are received, staged and stored. Our shipments typically include a range of donated materials, such as medical supplies and equipment, medicines and vitamins, education and shelter materials.

Airline Ambassadors is soliciting major airline companies for donations of aircraft. So far we have collected $500,000 of critically needed aid ready to leave for Haiti. We will provide volunteer crews and take care of logistics on the ground, and are currently raising money to pay for airline fuel. We pledge that 100% of ALL money donated to our Haitian Relief Mission will go to help the people of Haiti. We also pledge that our work will continue, as always, to alleviate poverty and its consequences in Haiti.

Direct Relief Commits Up to $100,000 Cash for Chile Response
Standing inventory of $57 million also tapped to provide medical material aid

March 4, 2010

Direct Relief International has committed up to $100,000 in cash and is drawing upon its standing medical material inventory of $57 million (wholesale) to respond to medical needs following the 8.8–magnitude earthquake in Chile.

Through its partner the Education Foundation for Economic and Social Development (FEDES) in Chile, Direct Relief is providing medical aid to the General Hospital of Curicó, which collapsed in the earthquake. The hospital, which is located in the heavily affected region of Maule, has established temporary facilities in a nearby school and in a tent hospital. The hospital has requested a variety of materials, including surgical instruments, medical supplies, and personal hygiene items for displaced families.

FedEx, a strong supporter of Direct Relief's emergency response work, is airlifting the critically needed aid to Chile free of charge.

Direct Relief is also sourcing needed materials from medical product donors to support partners providing medical care for the thousands of people affected by the earthquake. Dedicated corporate supporters Abbott, BD, Procter & Gamble, and Covidien, which have operations in Chile, have offered to donate products for the relief effort directly from their local warehouses. Eli Lilly has also committed $25,000 in support of the earthquake response.

UPDATE FROM THE WEBSITE:

Aid Offered to Chile As Earthquake Response Develops
March 1, 2010

As the situation evolves since the 8.8–magnitude earthquake, Direct Relief International has been in close contact with several partner organizations to offer assistance. Those organizations include a range of governmental and nongovernmental agencies responding to the emergency, in which 708 people have been killed and more than 2 million have been left homeless:

* Pan American Health Organization (PAHO), a regional office of the World Health Organization
* Fundación Educativa de Desarrollo Economico y Social (FEDES), a nonprofit organization based in Santiago that works to better the conditions of the nation's poorest hospitals and medical institutions as one of its programs
* Oficina Nacional de Emergencias e Información (ONEMI), a Chilean government agency dedicated to the prevention, organization, coordination and information relative to natural disasters
* The Chilean Consulate office in Los Angeles
* * The Archdiocese of Lima, Peru, a trusted partner in earthquake response, as proven after the 2007 Peru earthquake.
* The Hawaii Primary Care Association, which was in the tsunami–warning area immediately after the earthquake struck.

Several leading healthcare manufacturers contacted over the weekend have offered support, including Abbott, Ansell Healthcare, GlaxoSmithKline, Bristol–Myers Squibb, Covidien, Henry Schein, Johnson & Johnson and The Allergan Foundation.

Direct Relief is staying in close contact with emergency responders to provide medical aid as needed to help the people of Chile affected by the earthquake.

Aid Offered for Chile After 8.8–Magnitude Quake Strikes Today
February 27, 2010

In response to the magnitude 8.8 earthquake that struck Chile early Saturday morning, Direct Relief International has offered assistance to Chilean authorities, emergency relief organizations, and U.S.–based partners working in Chile.

In the immediate aftermath of an emergency, search and rescue operations and damage assessments are essential priorities to save lives and organize appropriate response efforts.

As search and rescue operations and initial damage assessments are performed by Chilean authorities, Direct Relief will continue to liaise with Chilean organizations and with colleague international organizations with operations in Chile. Direct Relief is preparing to respond based on long experience to earthquakes, including the ongoing effort in Haiti, but will coordinate with local actors to ensure any response is properly targeted.

EMI's Response to the Catastrophic Earthquake in Haiti

Update – February 19, 2010
Gary MacPhee is leading our fourth team of volunteers departing Monday, February 22nd and returning March 6th. They will be serving Compassion International and several local partners assessing over 40 damaged buildings for structural integrity. This team is stacked with California structural engineers specifically trained for post–earthquake damage assessment.

Please pray that this team would bless people by giving them the confidence to move back into safe homes, hospitals, clinics, churches, orphanages, and the like. Pray that they would gently release those who are still holding onto hope that their unsafe home could somehow be rehabilitated into the realization that they might need to start over. Pray that God would give Gary and his team the words to say in those times.

Pray also that, even as the demand for their services keeps them focused on their task, that they would not miss key opportunities to show the love of Christ at a critical time.

Field News
Chile: MSF Assessing the Situation in Areas Most Affected by the Earthquake

As the Chilean authorities manage the response to the disaster, MSF is concentrating its efforts in the areas that are most difficult to access.
March 2, 2010

Several teams from Doctors Without Borders/Médecins San Frontières (MSF) are assessing the needs in the Maule and Bio Bio regions of Chile, both of which were hard hit by the 8.8-magnitude earthquake that struck last Saturday.

The earthquake's impact zone covers nearly 1,000 kilometers along Chile's coastal regions; many areas there have yet to be evaluated. Our teams are in contact with the Chilean government, which is managing the response to the disaster. MSF will focus its efforts in the more isolated areas that rescue workers have not yet reached.

An MSF team in the Concepción region is planning to travel today with Chilean authorities to assess the situation in the coastal area north of the city. Two other teams are covering the coast in the Maule region, both north and south of the town of Constitución. The MSF teams have also visited hospitals in Curicó and Chillán, both of which have received people wounded during the earthquake. MSF will support the hospitals through the distribution of medical supplies.

In its assessments, MSF workers observed significant damage in several areas, especially along the coast, which was hit both by the earthquake and the large waves it caused. But the damage does not seem to be as widespread, and the roads are in good condition. In some villages, people are sleeping in the streets, either because they lost their homes or because the daily aftershocks have made them afraid to be inside.

MSF is also preparing a team of psychologists to provide mental health care to the population, as our workers have witnessed many people traumatized by the earthquake and subsequent tremors.

MSF already has 14 staff on the ground: a team consisting of doctors, nurses, logisticians and a coordinator from Argentina, Bolivia, Panama, Mexico and also Chile.

MSF Sends Teams to Chile to Evaluate the Situation After Today's Earthquake

MSF staff from Argentina and other parts of Latin America should start arriving this evening in Santiago de Chile to assess the needs of the population.
February 27, 2010

The medical-humanitarian organization Doctors Without Borders/Médecins San Frontières (MSF) is sending an exploratory team to assess the needs of the victims after an earthquake of 8.8 magnitude struck Chile early Saturday morning, causing serious damages in several areas of the country.

The MSF team, including a doctor, a nurse and logisticians coming from Argentina, Bolivia and Panama, is being deployed to Chile in order to better evaluate the needs of the population. The team from Argentina--composed of a doctor, a logistician and a nurse--should arrive Saturday night to the capital of the country, Santiago de Chile, crossing through the neighboring Argentine province of Mendoza.

For the moment, MSF doesn't have further direct information of the current situation in the most affected areas, but a staff member of MSF is already in Santiago and compiling information.

ShelterBox gets aid to remote areas in Chile

ShelterBox getting aid to hardest to reach areas in Chile ShelterBox Response Teams (SRT) in earthquake-hit Chile have been delivering emergency shelter to remote communities across a huge geographical area.

The 8.8–magnitude quake that struck the South American country a month ago caused widespread destruction in dozens of towns and villages and triggered a tsunami which ravaged a large section of the Chilean coast.

A SRT made up of Jessica Stanton, Andy Green, Sallie Buck and Malcolm Shead (all UK) has been delivering disaster relief tents and life–saving supplies for up to 10,000 people in four different regions of southern Chile.

The massive area stretches from Iloca, north of the worst–affected city Concepcion, to Lebu on the coast, and measures an estimated 40,000 square kilometers – roughly the size of the Netherlands.

Jessica Stanton, ShelterBox Operations Coordinator and Team Leader in Chile, said: 'This deployment has been by far the most complex I've experienced. The effects of the disaster are split across such an enormous area. It was one of the biggest earthquakes ever with some communities hit by the earthquake and others by the subsequent tsunami. Every town we are going to is in a critical state but we have to ensure the 1,000 tents we have on the ground go to those most in need.

'Yesterday we gave a box to a large family where the mother was just three days away from giving birth and her older baby had bronchitis. They had been living in a greenhouse with no proper floor and because it's so hot and dusty it was making the baby's condition worse. They were very emotional when they received the ShelterBox and everybody just burst out crying.'

'Unbelievably resilient'

The team has been working with the NGO, Un Techo Para Chile, consignee Adelphos, logistics firm Goodyear and Rotary clubs, Scouts and fire services to ensure aid is distributed.

A fifth ShelterBox Response Team member, Peter Leach (UK), has been based in Santiago assisting with customs and logistics. ShelterBoxes have so far been given out to people who have lost their homes in Retiro, Parral, Cauquenes, Chanco and Copihue. Along the coast, Talcahuano, Lebu and Coronle have also received ShelterBox aid.

Andy Green said: 'Shelterbox has been working in some of the hardest to reach places in rural Chile near the epicentre of the earthquake. We are the first organisation to be operating in the rural areas around some of the towns and villages.

'The small town of Retiro was one of the worst affected places and a huge distance away from any major routes. We have been working with the Retiro scouts and Retiro fire bridage to work in areas that have not received aid.'

Aid recipient Sara Norambvena ,70, said: 'I never thought I would lose my house. Thanks to ShelterBox I have a place now to spend the winter that is coming. I have seven grandchildren that I look after and now having these two tents means we will be safe. Shelterbox is the first aid we have seen since the earthquake. We are so happy we have not been forgotten.'

Jessica added: 'Down on the coast, such as in Talcahuano, we delivered boxes to families who had been living under plastic sheeting in really cramped conditions. The rains are due imminently and once they start, the whole situation will become a million times worse.

'In more urban areas such as Parral, there is a lot less space and with all the buildings made of mud and sand, the earthquake turned the whole town into rubble. In the old mining town of Coronle, houses built on top of mining tunnels which have collapsed have caused the houses to slip downhill. And in the fishing town of Lebu, people have not only lost their homes but also their livelihoods.

'The Chilean people are unbelievably resilient and are really pulling together.'

ShelterBox Response Team arrive in Chile

A three–person ShelterBox Response Team (SRT) has arrived in Chile after a massive earthquake rocked the country last weekend.

They had to travel through Argentina and across the Andes in order to reach Chile's capital Santiago and are now pulling out all the stops to establish where ShelterBoxes are most needed.

The team, consisting of Pat Prendergast (UK), Tom Lay (UK) and Traci Oliver (US) have met with Rotary contacts and government officials in Santiago. They will be travelling south to Concepcion and the worst affected areas tomorrow (Friday, March 5). Concepcion is Chile's second largest city and was nearest to the quake's epicentre.

Speaking at the time of the team's arrival in Santiago, Pat said: 'From all the reports we've heard there's an absolute crying need for shelter in Concepcion and areas along the coast which have been largely overlooked.'

The team's contacts in Chile told them that the Iloca region, on Chile's coast, was hit by a tsunami after the earthquake. The tsunami reached three miles inland in some areas causing widespread damage and destruction. The SRT will be visiting the area as soon as they travel south towards Concepcion, a twelve hour drive from Santiago.

448 ShelterBoxes have already been committed to Chile and more look set to follow.

If you can help support ShelterBox's work around the world in any way great or small, please visit the donation page on the website.

International disaster relief charity ShelterBox is responding to the news of destruction in Chile which has been hit by a massive earthquake. An initial ShelterBox Response Team (SRT) is currently preparing to mobilise with two SRT members from the UK and one from the US.

The 8.8 magnitude quake struck southern Chile at 0643 GMT on Saturday, February 26, and triggered a tsunami alert in large parts of Latin America and beyond. It caused buildings to collapse in the Chilean capital, Santiago, 200 miles from the epicentre. Hundreds of people are feared dead while thousands of people have been left homeless.

ShelterBox General Manager Lasse Petersen said: 'ShelterBox will respond quickly where needed, as the unfolding news becomes clearer and the scale of need is confirmed. A ShelterBox team is preparing to mobilise at the earliest opportunity. Our thoughts go out to the people who have been affected by this disaster.'

Chile's second–largest city, Concepcion, just 75 miles from the epicentre, is likely to be the worst affected, with more than 200,000 people living along the Bio Bio river. The initial earthquake was followed by two aftershocks measuring 6.9 and 5.5 in magnitude

A tsunami warning has been extended across the Pacific rim, including most of Central and South America and as far as Australia and Antarctica.

The quake is Chile's largest in 25 years and Chile's president Michelle Bachelet has declared a 'state of catastrophe' in the country.

About ShelterBox

ShelterBox is an international disaster relief charity specialising in emergency shelter provision. Humanitarian aid is delivered in iconic green ShelterBoxes. Each one contains a disaster relief tent for up to 10 people, a stove, blankets and other items essential for survival. ShelterBox responds to disaster as quickly as possible with the aim of helping the people who are most in need.

Every box is individually numbered and can be tracked by donors. Each box costs £490 – including the cost of all materials, packing, storage, transport worldwide and distribution to the needy. Assuming six months' use, this equates to shelter and warmth for less than 30 pence per person per day.

All aid delivery is undertaken by international volunteer ShelterBox Response Team members who have carried out extensive training with ShelterBox. We are often able to get aid where it is needed faster than any other organisation.

An initiative of Rotarian Tom Henderson OBE, a former Royal Navy search and rescue diver, ShelterBox started in 2000 as a project of the Rotary Club of Helston–Lizard, Cornwall. ShelterBox, now the largest Rotary Club project in the world, has responded to disasters including the Haiti Earthquake, Indian Ocean Tsunami, Hurricane Katrina and Cyclone Nargis in Myanmar (Burma). In 2010, ShelterBox is celebrating its tenth anniversary.

ONEMI or Oficina Nacional de Emergencias e Información (Spanish for National Office of Emergencies and Information) is a Chilean government agency dedicated to the prevention, organization, coordination and information relative to natural disasters. After the 1960 Valdivia earthquake a committee was formed to solve problems caused by the earthquake. However this committee was not dissolved afterwards and in 1974 it acquired by law independent status as governmental office.

Other state funded agencies and services that cooperate with ONEMI are CONAF in terms related to forests and wildlife and OVDAS in monitoring volcanoes.

2010 Chile Earthquake
Habitat for Humanity will respond to a devastating 8.8–magnitude earthquake that struck off the coast of Chile, 200 miles southwest of Santiago.

Habitat for Humanity in Chile has promoted good accommodation for over 3,500 families for over 7 years and is duly qualified to give a serious answer in this type of disaster.

However, our ability to respond effectively to this disaster requires the support of donors, volunteers, churches, corporate partners and all those organizations that want to join the cause. Please make your donation today to help families rebuild and repair their homes.

We ask you keep in your prayers the members of the Habitat team in Maule Chile – Bio Bio – Araucania – Metropolitana – Valparaiso found in the affected regions

 History
In 1998, a network of local residents and international stakeholders recognized the need for an organization that would address the challenges of inadequate housing conditions in Chile. Thanks to support from Habitat for Humanity International, the organization established official legal status in 2001, and by March of 2002 the first three homes were built in Caldera.

Habitat Chile has now assisted over 3,500 families to obtain adequate housing. There are Habitat projects in each of the five regions of the country (Antofagasta, Valparaíso, Región Metropolitana, Maule, Bio Bio and Araucanía).

Habitat houses in Chile are designed according to the location and each region's construction methods. For example, homes are built with cement blocks the north and wood in the south. All houses use natural light, ventilated interior spaces, durable materials and simple construction plans.

 Housing need in Chile
Chile is a highly urbanized country, with roughly 86% of its 16.4 million residents living in urban areas. In 2001, 9% of the urban population is considered to suffer slum conditions, up from 4% in 1990. (UNdata)

Since 1906, Chile's government has been involved in low–cost housing solutions, typically in the form of subsidies. In the 1970's, the government made a drastic cut to the state spending on housing, resulting in a housing deficit that the country is still in efforts to overcome. In 1990, the Aylwin government increased funds for housing by 50% and made public housing programs more available to the low–income sectors in an attempt to freeze the existing deficit. (Rex A. Hudson ,ed. Chile: A Country Study. Washington: GPO for the Library of Congress, 1994)

Within this context, Habitat Chile's principal success, and main source of funding, has been through ongoing partnerships with government programs. These partnerships combine established housing subsidies with Habitat's technical assistance programs and creative housing solutions. With additional support and leadership from organizations such as Habitat, government housing and subsidy programs successfully encourage low–income sectors to obtain legal property through formal channels, creating a more secure foundation for each family's future.

 Model projects
Habitat for Humanity Chile supports several initiatives, in addition to traditional home construction.

 Building homes without borders
This project addresses the situation of 200 low–income families living in precarious housing conditions and in urgent need of a solution. These families cannot access credit nor government subsidies. The project engages businesses, volunteers, partner organizations and the community to build new, basic, homes as an immediate shelter solution, and to provide families with financial education for the long–term future.

 "Kimun Ruka"
As a result of projects focusing on the native peoples of the region, 75 indigenous Mapuches in the fifth and eight regions of Chile now own homes that both improve their living conditions and respect their aesthetic traditions. "Kimun Ruka", in the Mapuche language, means "knowledge and wisdom of living." Through collaboration with Mapuche architects and tribal authorities, this project aims to revive the construction designs and techniques of the Mapuche people.

 Bring our children home
Children with life–threatening illnesses in Chile are often permanently relocated to facilities with the professionally–recommended living conditions for the medical attention they need. In cases where the children remain in the home, inadequate housing conditions can put the effectiveness of their medical treatment at risk. In response, Habitat Chile is construction bedroom home–additions and improvements that comply with these standards, in order that they may continue medical treatment in a safe environment and under the care of their families.

 Leadership school
A program that provides local housing authorities the opportunity to directly participate in the learning process of their communities. The school has two graduating classes each year, with 35 facilitators and 600 families for each session. Classes emphasize savings and efficient administration of resources with specified family–oriented plans for housing, education, health and career development.

 Financial education
This project is aimed at educating and accompanying partner families in the planning and administration of their home economy. The manuals and methodology used are the result of a project designed by Habitat for Humanity International and financed by Citi Foundation. Through a series of workshops, families learn to administer their income and expenses, and learn to design a budget, analyze and control their expenses, and follow a savings plan. Families are also informed about the risks and advantages of taking out loans with Habitat for Humanity or other organizations.

 Complete Houses
In addition to the projects above, Habitat for Humanity Chile continues to build complete homes. Homeowners invest hundreds of hours of their own labor, helping to build their houses and the houses of others, together with volunteers. Their monthly payments go into a Local Rotating Fund, which allows the construction of new homes.

Talca (2002 Census pop. 193,755) is a city and commune in Chile, and is the capital of both Talca Province and Maule Region (7th Region of Chile).

The city was founded as San Agustín de Talca in 1742 by José Antonio Manso de Velasco.[3] It was partially destroyed by earthquakes in 1742 and 1928, being rebuilt both times. It sits near the epicenter of the 2010, magnitude 8.8 earthquake and suffered severe shaking[4]. The city played a role in Chile's independence; it was the home of Mgr. José Ignacio Cienfuegos, and was the site Bernardo O'Higgins' proclamation of Chilean independence in 1818.[3]

The city is an important economic center, with agricultural (wheat) and manufacturing activities, as well as wine production. It is also the location of the Universidad de Talca and the Catholic University of Maule, among others. The Catholic Church of Talca has held a prominent role in the history of Chile.

The inhabitants of Talca have a saying, Talca, Paris & London, born from a hat shop which had placed a ribbon stating that it had branches in Paris and London. The shop was owned by a French immigrant named Jean−Pierre Lagarde.

UPDATE FROM THE WEBSITE:

Salvation Army Workers in Chile Join Forces (Update 5 March)

THE Salvation Army in southern Chile is combining its resources and using careful planning to help people affected by the earthquake and tsunami that caused devastation to much of the country, particularly in and around the city of Concepcion.

The emergency disaster headquarters for the southern region has been established at the Salvation Army corps (church) in Hualpencillo, which is located between Concepcion and the coast. The corps has a kitchen where meals can be prepared. There are tents set up at the corps, some occupied by Salvation Army soldiers (members) from Hualpencillo whose homes were washed away by the tsunami caused by the earthquake.

An emergency disaster team arrived on Monday 1 March from Valdivia with goods and resources that could be distributed in the most affected areas. Vans and other Salvation Army emergency vehicles are delivering meals and other essentials. Local Salvationists are being supported by an emergency disaster services team of officers and soldiers from Osorno, 250 kilometres south of Hualpencillo.

More than five years ago Major Juan Gutierrez, then corps officer (Salvation Army minister) at Hualpencillo, dug a well with which to water the lawns and gardens around the Salvation Army property. He never used it but God has honoured his plans by making the well an important component of The Salvation Army's response to the earthquake.

The current corps officer, Major Abraham Marin, installed a pump on Wednesday (3 March) and, using a generator supplied by Major Roberto Moya, corps officer at Osorno, there is now a source of clean water which can be used by the people being helped by The Salvation Army in Hualpencillo.

Major Juan Carlos Alarcon, Divisional Commander of The Salvation Army's Chile South Division, says: 'I spoke with Major Gutierrez by telephone to advise him that members of his family who live in the [earthquake] zone are safe. At the same time, I thanked him for drilling the well, which is now helping hundreds of families. In Hualpencillo, we are not only providing food, but fresh spring water as well.'

On Tuesday the corps officers from Concepcion and Hualpencillo, Majors Carlos and Elizabeth Aguilar and Majors Abraham and Norma Marin, met with corps members to decide the type of help they should give to people affected by the earthquake. Representatives from the regional government, army, navy and other religious and non–government organisations (NGOs) attended the meeting.

The two corps have been officially recognised and lines of communication have been established to help provide immediate assistance and support during the eventual reconstruction.

The Chilean capital, Santiago, was not affected as badly as the southern cities but the earthquake still caused damage there. In the Brazil neighbourhood, 1,500–2,000 people are being served with food every day. Hot meals and substantial breakfasts are now being offered, along with supplies of water, first aid essentials, blankets and candles.

Major Nancy Alarcon, officially on sick leave while recovering from surgery, has taken charge of the many missing persons enquiries arriving at The Salvation Army's Chile South Divisional Headquarters through the Internet, by telephone, in letters and on handwritten notes. On Wednesday Nancy and her team were able to respond to Europe regarding a person who was found to be safe in a rural village. This means of assistance will continue to be expanded.

'Let's Help Hualpen' is the slogan that Captain Marcos Gutierrez, corps officer in Ancud on the island of Chiloe in southern Chile, is promoting in his area on radio and television. He has received 60 bags of merchandise, clothing, 200 litres of water, 50 boxes of milk, pasta, rice, sacks of potatoes, disposable adult diapers, crockery, blankets, bedspreads and sheets – all donated by the neighbours around the corps.

A municipal truck has been put at his disposal to take the items from Ancud to Hualpencillo, and he will be accompanied on the journey by a local radio personality and reporter from Ancud.

Major Juan Carlos Alarcon concludes: 'We are glad to report that our officers have freedom of movement during the curfews. Caravans are being coordinated to bring supplies in safely. We are part of the group of recognised agencies for the administration of assistance from the Government in the assigned zones.'

Immediate Salvation Army response to devastating earthquake in Chile (updated 28 February)

Following a devastating 8.8 magnitude earthquake in Chile during the early hours of Saturday morning (27 February), affecting around two million people, Salvation Army emergency services were immediately mobilised to provide support and comfort.

International financial assistance is already on the way from The Salvation Army international headquarters in London.

The earthquake epicentre was approximately 90 miles (150 kilometres) north west of the city of Concepción in Southern Chile which is approximately 350 miles (approximately 600 kilometres) from the capital of Santiago, 'nevertheless, the quake was of a 7.0 magnitude in the Santiago metropolitan region', says the Chief Secretary of The Salvation Army South America West Territory, Lieut–Colonel F. Bradford Bailey .

The area most affected by the earthquake was between the cities Os Temuco and Chillan, with Concepcion hardest hit, reports the South America West Territory Secretary for Business Administration Lieut–Colonel Maria Alarcon. She adds, 'I have never seen such destruction here before, though I have worked in many disaster situations – they don't compare with this'. The Lieut–Colonel says the immediate need is still food, water and medicine.

Lieut–Colonel Alarcon also reports that tents to house 60 displaced families have been set up on the patio of the Hualpencillo Corps near Concepcion and that Salvation Army officers are travelling from Puerto Montt and Osorno, in Southern Chile, to Concepcion to join The Salvation Army emergency relief response team.

'Our officers are all fine, but a lot of Salvation Army properties are damaged especially the older ones made of adobe bricks. The worst damage in Santiago has occurred at Quinta Normal and Lo Vial Corps, and El Faro Men's Residence,' adds the Lieut–Colonel.

Territorial Commander for the South American West Territory, Commissioner Jorge A. Ferreira (currently in Ecuador) reports that The Salvation Army is also carrying out emergency relief work in the city of Os Valparaiso on the west coast of Chile. The Commissioner adds that it had been planned to dedicate a recently arrived mobile Salvation Army emergency services canteen (a donation from USA Southern Territory) on 4 March, 'however, this is now already being used to serve those in need'.

In the early hours following the earthquake Lieut–Colonel Bailey said that the immediate Salvation Army response included providing food, water, first aid kits, emergency packets, blankets, candles and other urgently required supplies.

He added that people had flocked to the streets 'as numerous aftershocks continue to pummel' the country, severely affecting older buildings in the more historical areas of the larger cities.

Water, gas and electricity were immediately cut off in areas affected by the earthquake and will stay disconnected until relevant emergency crews can assess the damage and prioritise immediate needs.

Lieut–Colonel Bailey said that it has been extremely difficult to communicate with Salvation Army centres throughout the country as all phone lines (mobile and land) have been disrupted. ‘Some computer based communication, especially Skype, has been providing an alternative way for those in other countries to communicate with people in Chile.’

The emergency services coordinator for The Salvation Army International Headquarters (IHQ) in London, Lieut–Colonel Mike Caffull, reports that IHQ has already agreed to provide financial assistance for the Chilean Salvationists relief response. He says assistance coordinated by the IHQ emergency team will also be provided regarding ongoing relief in the medium and long term.

Please pray for the people of Chile.

SALVATION Army emergency teams are providing ongoing support to people in Tocopilla, northern Chile, who lost their homes in a devastating earthquake. Tocopilla, situated in the Atacama Desert – the most arid desert in the world – is the city most affected by the earthquake which measured 7.7 on the Richter scale and left 15,000 people without homes or basic necessities.

Jaime Garcia, a worker from the local fish plant, told Salvation Army team members that the only thing still standing in his house is the kitchen. 'Now, we will have to start again,' he said. Jaime is one of thousands of people who saw years of sacrifice to build their homes and provide for their families brought to nothing in the 50 seconds that the main quake lasted.

Many people are now living in improvised tents in front of what remains of their homes, desperate to hold on to something of life before the earthquake. Families have begun clearing rubble from their land, often simply leaving it in the streets of Tocopilla, which has been declared a 'disaster zone' by the President of Chile, Michelle Bachelet.

The Salvation Army continues working with the people, distributing approximately 300 prepared meals and water daily. Teams are working in and with the community, and have organised community members to help in the preparation and distribution of food.

Lieut–Colonel Susan McMillan, Chief Secretary of The Salvation Army's South America West Territory, says: 'A roster of the most–affected families has been prepared, and bags of non–perishable food, blankets and tents have been distributed to them.'

The Salvation Army has also been providing basic medical care. The officer in charge of Tocopilla Outpost, Captain Clauris Morales, is a nurse. She has been providing first aid, taking blood pressure, and providing injections to those in the community who require this service.

Two Salvation Army officers from central Chile have been flown by the Chilean Air Force to the region, in order to provide some relief to the officers in the north. Major Elba Espinoza and Captain Anabella Archiles will provide support to Captain Morales in Tocopilla while plans are put in place, working closely with the community to replace housing for those families who have lost everything.

International Medical Corps on the Ground in Chile, Following 8.8–Magnitude Earthquake
Los Angeles, Calif., March 1, 2010

International Medical Corps has a representative on the ground in Chile, coordinating with ONEMI (the National Office of Emergencies and Information) and assessing the needs at local hospitals and clinics, following the devastating 8.8–magnitude earthquake that struck February 27. International Medical Corps is also gathering emergency medicines and supplies and has additional Emergency Response Teams of volunteer doctors and nurses on standby, ready to deploy as needed.

The earthquake was one of the strongest on record, sending tsunami warnings throughout the Pacific and triggering aftershocks as powerful as 6.9. The death toll is now at 723, according to ONEMI, a figure that is expected to rise.

The quake struck at 3:34 a.m. local time and was centered about 70 miles from Concepcion, Chile's second–largest city, at a depth of 22 miles. It downed buildings and houses in Santiago, about 200 miles away. According to CNN, the earthquake in Chile was more powerful than the 7.0–earthquake that struck Haiti on January 12, killing at least 230,000. Chile is relatively well equipped to respond to natural disaster and had deployed teams to Haiti to assist.

International Medical Corps was on the ground in Haiti, treating patients, within 22 hours of that disaster. Today, teams are treating at least 1,500 patients a day throughout the earthquake–affected areas.

International Medical Corps' Emergency Response draws on 25 years experience in emergency settings, including last September's earthquake in Sumatra, Indonesia, the massive 2005 earthquake in Pakistan and the Indian Ocean tsunami in 2004. International Medical Corps Emergency Response Team on Standby as it Monitors Situation in Chile and Potential Tsunami Areas
Los Angeles, Calif., February 27, 2010

International Medical Corps is monitoring the situation in Chile and in areas in the Pacific basin where tsunami warnings have been issued, following an 8.8–magnitude earthquake that struck early Saturday.

Emergency Response Teams are preparing to deploy to Chile and potential tsunami areas, and are gathering the necessary medicines and supplies.

The quake struck at 3:34 a.m. local time and was centered about 70 miles from Concepcion, Chile's second–largest city, at a depth of 22 miles. There were early reports of about 120 deaths, with the toll expected to rise. It downed buildings and houses in Santiago, about 200 miles away.

According to CNN, the earthquake in Chile was more powerful than the 7.0 quake that struck Haiti on Jan 12, killing at least 230,000.

The Pacific Tsunami Warning Center issued a warning for Chile and Peru, and a less–urgent tsunami watch for Ecuador, Colombia, Panama, Costa Rica and Antarctica. Hawaii sounded tsunami–warning sirens as well.

International Medical Corps was on the ground in Haiti, treating patients, within 22 hours of that disaster. Today, teams are treating 1,000 patients a day throughout the earthquake–affected areas.

Chile is relatively well–equipped to respond to natural disaster and had deployed teams to Haiti to assist.

3/8/10 SITE UPDATE:

The situation now

More than 200 aftershocks of 5.0 magnitude or greater have hit Chile since the earthquake at the end of February.

Food and medical supplies are reaching the population, and water supply networks are beginning to be re–established in some areas. Other areas are proving harder to reach and water is being tankered in, while damage to sanitation facilities (toilets and sewage systems) is considerable.
Oxfam's response

On the basis of our first assessment in the regions south of Santiago, Oxfam is planning a three–month response.

We will work in three of the worst–affected communities in Maule and Bio Bio coastal regions, distributing buckets and hygiene kits and supporting hygiene awareness activities to benefit 3,000 people.

We will also be providing technical advice to Government institutions on water distribution techniques and sanitation, promoting Sphere standards.

UPDATE FROM THE SITE:

On the ground

Details on the impact of the earthquake on Chile are still emerging, but Oxfam's emergency response team is now en route and set to arrive in country on Monday 1 March.

The five–member team of emergency response experts, including water engineers and logisticians, will assess the situation and consult with the Chilean government to determine if and how Oxfam can offer assistance. If need be, they will be ready to help local partner organisations respond to the quake.

Even though the severity of the situation is unclear, Oxfam is preparing for the worst. The team flying in have years of experience in responding to earthquakes and Oxfam also has partners in the country who can begin to help immediately. Chile is a developed country with a very capable government and while it is unlikely that this disaster will be as severe as what we saw last month in Haiti, we want to be in place to help as soon as possible.

FROM THE OXFAM BLOG:

Oxfam send staff to respond to Chilean Earthquake
February 27th, 2010 at 1:39 pm.

Oxfam is today sending a team of water engineers and logisticians from Colombia and senior humanitarian staff from its centre in Mexico in response to the 8.8 magnitude earthquake that hit Chile today. Oxfam is also contacting partners in the country so that the agencies response to the crisis can roll out as fast as possible.

Jeremy Loveless, Oxfam's Deputy Humanitarian Director:

"Even though the severity of the situation is unclear, Oxfam is preparing for the worst and will be sending five staff out to Chile today to assess and consider how best to help the thousands of people effected by the disaster. The team flying in have years of experience in responding to earthquakes and Oxfam also has partners in the country who can begin to help immediately. Chile is a developed country with a very capable government and while it is unlikely that this disaster will be as severe as what we saw last month in Haiti, we want to be in place to help as soon as possible."

Chile - Earthquake Fact Sheet #5, Fiscal Year (FY) 2010

BUREAU FOR DEMOCRACY, CONFLICT, AND HUMANITARIAN ASSISTANCE (DCHA)
OFFICE OF U.S. FOREIGN DISASTER ASSISTANCE (OFDA)

Note: The last fact sheet was dated March 4, 2010.

KEY DEVELOPMENTS

- According to international media, on March 4, the Government of Chile (GoC) National Office of Emergencies and Information (ONEMI) revised the number of confirmed deaths to 279 people, indicating that the original death toll included individuals still listed as missing. The estimated number of individuals reported dead or missing is currently 805 people, 75 percent of which pertain to most-affected Maule Region.

- On March 5, six additional USAID/OFDA disaster response experts arrived in Chile, bringing the total number of USAID/OFDA assessment team members to 12. Team members continue to conduct assessments in earthquake- and tsunami-affected areas, working with U.S. Embassy personnel and GoC officials to identify and respond to priority humanitarian needs.

- On March 5, the USAID/OFDA assessment team visited several towns in most-affected Maule Region, including Curañripe, Pelluhue, and Chanco—municipalities located in the tsunami-affected area. After meetings with local officials, the assessment team reported that many of the critical humanitarian needs in urban areas have been met by the GoC response. In addition, the GoC and utility companies continue working to restore water supply and electricity to parts of Maule Region.

- On March 5, U.N. Secretary-General Ban Ki-Moon arrived in Chile to meet with GoC President Michelle Bachelet and President-elect Sebastian Piñera. The Secretary-General also planned to visit earthquake-affected areas, including a scheduled visit to Concepción city in BíoBío Region.

Ban pledges $10 million for post-quake assistance during Chile visit

Source: United Nations News Service

Date: 05 Mar 2010

Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon today pledged to release up to $10 million in United Nations funds to support relief and recovery efforts in Chile, as he began a two-day visit to see the earthquake damage and assess how the world body can help.

"I am very moved to see such strong courage and resilience of the Chilean people," Mr. Ban said upon his arrival in the capital, Santiago, where he was greeted by Foreign Minister Mariano Fernández and the Executive Secretary of the UN Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean (ECLAC), Alicia Bárcena.

The 8.8–magnitude quake that struck the coast of Chile last Saturday killed several hundred people and affected around 2 million.

"Chile has been extraordinarily generous in assisting Haiti in its time of need. Now is the moment for the United Nations and the international community to stand with Chile and its people," stated Mr. Ban, who had offered immediate support and aid to country through the UN Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA) in the wake of the disaster.

The Secretary–General met with Chilean President Michelle Bachelet to discuss the country's immediate and long–term needs, and they also held a joint meeting with government ministers and the heads of UN agencies in Santiago.

"The UN Country Team represented at this meeting is working with the international community to provide the emergency relief goods indicated by the Government of Chile, including generators, satellite radios and mobile hospitals," said Mr. Ban.

"We are ready to help provide any assistance that the Chilean Government requests, immediate and long–term," he added, while commending what he described as Ms. Bachelet's "extraordinary leadership," as well as her Government's coordination with President–elect Sebastián Piñera.

The President voiced her gratitude for the UN's technical and financial support for the recovery efforts, as well as Mr. Ban's visit to the area to personally see the damages caused by the quake.

The Secretary–General also announced the creation of a joint working group between UN agencies and the Chilean Government to define the priority areas in which to allocate the funds that will be released from the Central Emergency Response Fund (CERF), particularly in health, emergency shelters, education and water and sanitation.

ECLAC and the UN Development Programme (UNDP), along with OCHA, will coordinate the working group with the Chilean authorities.

In addition to meeting with top officials, Mr. Ban will later today visit "A Roof for Chile" Foundation for a ceremony with hundreds of young volunteers who will go to the damaged areas. The Catholic Church–based non–governmental organization builds temporary housing for slum dwellers and seeks to provide them with education, social services and micro–credit, as well as guide them in acquiring permanent housing.

Tonight he will join Ms. Bachelet in the launching of a 24–hour telethon to be broadcast on national television to help raise $30 million for earthquake victims.

On Saturday, the Secretary–General will travel to Concepción, the second largest city in Chile, over 300 miles south of Santiago, and the adjacent port of Talcahuano, two of the most devastated areas close to the epicentre of the quake. He will also meet with the heads of the 22 UN agencies operating in Chile.

Meanwhile, Chilean officials have assured the public that drugs and medicines will be available free of charge. According to the World Health Organization (WHO), the Government has said there is no evidence of outbreaks of communicable diseases, although disease surveillance has been stepped up given unsanitary conditions in some areas which remain without safe drinking water and where garbage is accumulating.

WHO is working with the Government to coordinate international health aid arriving from other countries, as well as to coordinate technical aspects related to mobile field hospitals and to support communication needs.

2010 Chile Earthquake Response
March 1, 2010

The United Way system in Latin America has mobilized to respond to the catastrophic earthquake that hit Chile on the morning of February 27. United Way's local organization in Chile and other United Way members in the Latin American region have mobilized their staff, volunteer leaders and resources in response, and will work together to determine the most pressing long–term recovery needs.

The Role of United Way Following the Earthquake in Chile

▪United Way's role is to support long–term recovery efforts to rebuild lives and infrastructure devastated by the disaster in Chile, as we have done and continue to do in Haiti, and to help residents address educational, financial and health–related challenges.

▪United Way's national organization in Chile and other United Way members in the Latin American region have mobilized their staff, volunteer leaders and resources in response, and will work together to determine the most pressing long–term recovery needs.

▪Examples may include access to health care, rebuilding schools and housing, and meeting critical basic needs for shelter, food and clothing.

How People Can Help

▪At this point in time, financial contributions are the best way to help. Contributions to the United Way Worldwide Disaster Fund will support the recovery and long–term rebuilding needs of devastated Chilean communities. United Way Worldwide is working through Sociedad Activa, the United Way organization in Chile, and its community partners to respond to this disaster.

Financial Donations

▪Checks can be made out to United Way and mailed to Lakes Region United Way, 95 Water St., Laconia NH 03246. The memo line should include "United Way Worldwide Disaster Fund" and, if desired, should indicate Disaster Recovery / Rebuilding, Chile or Haiti. No fees will be deducted from donations made by check.

▪People can make a $10 donation by texting CHILE to 864833 (UNITED). Standard text messaging rates apply.

See more option on website:
http://www.lruw.org/index/ChileDisasterResponse.asp

Volunteering

▪If you have prior disaster relief experience, have fluency of the local language and have expertise in a technical field such as medicine, communications logistics or water/sanitation engineering, we encourage you to register with the Center for International Disaster Information (www.CIDI.org) volunteer database.

Product Donations

▪Unsolicited donations of goods and services from individuals and community groups, while well intentioned, have hidden costs and pose a number of complications for recovery efforts. United Way Worldwide is unable to accept such donations at this time. Organizations accepting product donations include AidMatrix Network, http://www.aidmatrix.org or 1–469–357–3185.

Help Locating Loved Ones

▪Those trying to locate U.S. citizens living or traveling in Chile should contact the U.S. Department of State, Office of Overseas Citizens Services, at 1–888–407–4747 or 1–202–647–5225, or go to their Web site

UPDATE FROM THE WEBSITE:

World Vision staff began distributing food and relief supplies yesterday in towns hard–hit by Saturday's 8.8 magnitude earthquake and resulting tsunamis.

Following assessments Tuesday, staff from the Christian humanitarian organisation distributed water, food, blankets, diapers and other infant items in the town of Dichato, located about 40 miles north of Concepcion. The town was devastated by the dual disasters.

"In Dichato, there's nothing, nothing," said Paula Saez, World Vision's communications manager in Chile. "The damage is incredible because they have been hit twice – once with the earthquake and a second time with the tsunami. There is death everywhere: dead dogs in the street, dust, garbage. It's devastated."

Assessment teams reported that in part of the town, residents had only one source of clean water and that the Chilean military and firefighters were distributing water to community members.

World Vision sent additional trucks from Santiago today with additional food, water, diapers and other infant items for distribution later this week in Dichato and Lota, located 25 miles south of Concepcion.

"People need everything here," said Saez. "Shelter, clothes, food. Everything else is gone or destroyed."

World Vision is responding in Dichato.

"I wouldn't wish this on my worst enemy," said Hans Guzman, a resident of Dichato, speaking to World Vision aid workers.

Guzman was living with his grandmother when the earthquake hit. While running to escape the tsunami, he tried to grab the hand of a woman running behind him, but the wave pulled her away and the woman disappeared. Guzman has not been able to reach his sister or mother in Talcahuano but he and his grandmother are safe.

World Vision staff are assessing the needs of residents who have moved into the hillsides for fear of more tsunamis.

World Vision is also preparing to establish Child–Friendly Spaces in Dichato. Child–Friendly Spaces are centres where children can enjoy activities such as music, theater and games in a structured and supervised environment.

The first Child–Friendly Space will likely focus on the 300 children under five years old in Dichato. Additional centres will focus on activities for older children.

Chile: World Vision begins relief efforts
1 Mar 2010

By World Vision staff

World Vision began distributing hundreds of blankets and some water containers to Santiago's earthquake survivors over the weekend as it prepared to start an extensive response in the hardest hit areas south of the capital. Many of the communities where the aid group already works––including Lota City, Temuco, Concepcion and other areas in the Bio Bio region and the La Araucania region––were close to the devastating quake's epicentre.

Late Sunday, World Vision flew a team of six relief and logistics experts from Santiago to Concepcion to assess the severity of the damage and to verify the safety of staff and community members that have so far been cut off from communication or road access. The team will also open a second operations centre in the south to coordinate with the agency's relief teams in Santiago.

The Christian humanitarian organisation has prepositioned relief supplies in its Santiago warehouse, and plans to purchase additional high–priority supplies in country, including water tanks, water purification tablets, cooking items, hygiene kits, blankets and lanterns. These items will be rushed to communities in the Concepcion area as soon as air transport can be arranged. Meanwhile, the agency is working to bring in additional supplies from its regional warehouses, including one in La Paz, Bolivia.

In the five communities just outside Santiago where World Vision is responding, aid workers reported that many houses had collapsed completely, while others were still standing but too damaged for people to safely inhabit. There was no water or electricity service Sunday. Children were acting fearful of closed–in areas and hundreds of families were still sleeping on the streets, the relief teams reported. The start of the new school term has also been postponed because of expected structural damage to school buildings.

While the needs in areas south of the capital are expected to be far more critical, children and families in the Santiago region require food, first aid and hygiene kits, water, water containers, disposable diapers, plastic sheeting, candles, batteries, flashlights, blankets and sleeping bags, staff said. Survivors also need medical attention, damage evaluations of their homes and psychosocial support for children.

“We are extremely concerned about the emotional impact of so many aftershocks on children. Not only the physical needs, but the psychosocial needs of children in the quake zone will be a priority once the full extent of the needs are known and we can begin delivering much–needed supplies,” said Tatiana Benavides, World Vision's national director in Chile.

World Vision has worked in Chile for 30 years and has more than 100 staff in the country, reaching about 100,000 children and adults with education, microfinance, job training, and sustainable development programmes.

Mission
The Pacific Disaster Center's mission is to provide applied information research and analysis support for the development of more effective policies, institutions, programs, and information products for the disaster management and humanitarian assistance communities of the Asia Pacific region and beyond.

Our evolving approach to emergency management shifts the emphasis from being reactive – focusing on response and recovery operations, to being proactive – focusing on mitigation and preparedness. This strategy is built on the United Nations approach to loss reduction that acknowledges public awareness and community partnerships, better assessments of natural hazard risks, and preventative action priorities as critical components that minimize identified risks. Our overall goal is to promote disaster management as an integral part of national to local economic and social development to foster disaster–resistant communities.

Program Areas
The Pacific Disaster Center's strategic program focuses on five areas:
Decision and Policy Support
Institutional Capacity Development
Risk and Vulnerability
Humanitarian Assistance Support
Security and Sustainability

Through these programs the Pacific Disaster Center promotes the partnerships and technology required to create disaster information networks and disaster resistant communities in the Asia Pacific region and beyond.

19 January 2010

Deployed relief team reported in much concern on fragmented road conditions with biggest obstacle lying ahead in distributing the supplies donated worldwide; the possibility of massive riots angered with whole delay of distribution process.
Already reaching two hundred thousand of death tolls, sluggish handling on corpses with sweltering weather only makes the air worse, burdening epidemic outbreak worries.
Especially worried are children and aged with weak immune systems in constant exposure to malnutrition and contaminated atmosphere.
Byung Hee Lee, the director of emergency relief of Good Neighbors in the field reported, “Diarrheal disease is rapidly spreading and without urgent quarantine control and sanitation, the condition here is at high risk”

Good Neighbors made a decision for further deployment of supplies and cash of total 400,000USD following the previous 100,000USD, with another emergency relief team for site investigation and logistics on 18th of January. Medical practitioners are planned to be deployed on 20th (Wednesday) with most urgent ‘quarantine specialist’ to be sought provided locally for quick respond.

Good Neighbors is recruiting volunteering doctors and nurses who can contribute minimum 3 weeks in Haiti.

United Way's Response to Earthquakes in Chile and Haiti

United Way's local organization in Chile, Sociedad Activa, along with other United Way organizations throughout Latin America have mobilized to respond to the catastrophic earthquake that hit Chile on the morning of February 27. Their staff, volunteer leaders and resources are responding, and will work together to determine the most pressing long–term recovery needs in the areas affected by this earthquake.

In the wake of a disaster, United Way's role is to support long–term recovery efforts to rebuild lives and communities devastated by the disaster and to address educational, financial and health–related challenges.

United Way Worldwide has created the United Way Worldwide Disaster Fund, introduced a text–to–give program, and is coordinating the integration of efforts from United Ways around the world, in cooperation with our corporate partners and other NGOS. Donations to the Fund will go toward long–term recovery and rebuilding in Chile, as well as meet the needs of Chileans affected by the disaster.

In response to the earthquake in Haiti, the United Way system worldwide and its corporate partners are working with Haitian community networks to determine the most pressing long–term recovery needs.

SEARCH & RESCUE

From the Website:

His Glory Foundation is a Christian based non–profit organization comprised of volunteers who, guided by Luke Chapter 10, monitor, respond and provide aid during disasters both in the United States and around the world. His Glory foundation is made up of three divisions: Special Investigative Services, Search, Rescue & Aid Teams and World Wide Disaster Relief.

Once all immediate needs have been met following a disater, we also offer training to communities and country leaders in new techniques of search, rescue and aid, preparing them for future emergencies and disasters.

Over the last 15 years we have researched and tested many search, rescue and safety techniques in efforts to find the safest, quickest and most effective search, rescue and aid techniques. Many of the techniques we use today allow us the do just that.

We also believe that our Lord shows us detailed instructions on how disaster relief will be done successfully, in the Good Samairtian parable:

* First, stop what you are doing (forget your personal schedule, job, kids, family, what people will say, and your financial problems)
* Second, search for the lost.
* Third, rescue the hurting, aid the sick & diseased, do that in a team manner spoken in the book of Luke Ch. 10, and glory not what you did, but give the Father HIS GLORY.

For this reason churches of almost every denomination have asked His Glory Foundation volunteers to come and speak, to tell what GOD says & what he has done through us, allowing us hot give HIM his glory! If your church or organization would like a speaker to come to your location, please email our Director or International Emergency Office Coordinator

When: September 2020
Why: West Coast Wildfires

West Coast Wildfires 2020
ROWW is responding to the unprecedented wildfires that are scorching the west coast and is currently in Phase 1: Immediate Emergency Supply Distribution. We have partnered with Direct Relief and Lowe's Home Improvement to distribute hygiene kits, first aid and emergency preparedness kits, wildfire kits, tarps, EZ ups, pet cages, generators, medical supplies, PPE, and more to the thousands of displaced people all across the State of Oregon.

As active fires die down and recovery needs shift, ROWW will transition to Phase 2: Response Kits (generators, fuel, tarps, portable heaters, shovels, chainsaw oil, clean up supplies, etc). We hope to send in teams and potentially heavy equipment to help with physical debris removal and clean up.

Our Phase 3: Long Term Recovery may include rehabilitation projects, appliance packages, shed construction, and more to be determined as we assess individual needs.

If you or someone you know are displaced due to the fire and have immediate needs, please contact us for information on how to access these resources from our current Phase 1 response.

Immediate Salvation Army response to devastating earthquake in Chile

Following a devastating 8.8 magnitude earthquake in Chile during the early hours of Saturday morning, Salvation Army emergency Services were immediately mobilized to provide support and comfort. International financial assistance is already on the way. The Salvation Army has had a presence in Chile since 1909 and today offers social services including hospitals, schools for impoverished children and adult rehabilitation.

The immediate response is to provide food, water, first aid kits, emergency packets, blankets, candles and other urgently required supplies. A recently arrived mobile canteen (a donation From The Salvation Army in the United States) is one of the key relief vehicles.

Donors can visit www.salvationarmyusa.org to make a donation to support ongoing relief efforts in Chile. Also, they can text the word "chile" to 52000 to make a one–time $10 donation billed to their cell phone account.

The Salvation Army personnel on the ground has placed tents to house 60 displaced families on the grounds of a Salvation Army center near Concepcion. Salvation Army officers are traveling from Puerto Montt and Osorno, in Southern Chile, to Concepcion to join The Salvation Army emergency relief response team.

The earthquake epicenter was approximately 90 miles North west of the city of Concepción in Southern Chile. This is approximately 350 miles from the capital of Santiago. Nevertheless, according to officials on the ground, the quake was of a 7.0 magnitude in the Santiago metropolitan region.
People have flocked to the streets as numerous aftershocks continue to pummel the country, severely affecting older buildings in the more historical areas of the larger cities.

The Salvationists I met have no unusual skills or training that distinguish them from many others. They do have, though, a commitment to dash in, and remain in, places where the natural instinct would be to flee. They soldier on. ––Kathryn Jean Lopez, Organization Trends February 2002

The Salvation Army's Disaster Services program began 100 years ago in response to a hurricane that devastated Galveston, Texas and has grown into a nation–wide network involving thousands of volunteers and trained personnel. In following with our holistic ministry, we provide services that meet the immediate as well as long term physical, emotional and spiritual needs of disaster victims.

These services include: food, shelter, grief counseling and financial assistance. Our disaster response teams are often the first to appear on the scene of a tragedy and the last to leave, making certain that the needs of all have been met.

One Response:

http://oneresponse.info/Coordination/ClusterApproach/Pages/Cluster%20Approach.aspx

OneResponse is a collaborative inter–agency website designed to enhance humanitarian coordination within the cluster approach, and support the predictable exchange of information in emergencies at the country level. The website will support Clusters and OCHA fulfill their information management responsibilities as per existing IASC guidance. Key characteristics of the site include:

* A global entry page, where all global cluster guidance materials located on www.humanitarianreform.org is currently being migrated.
* Country or emergency specific content will be hosted on the field level site.
* A specific disaster site will be created within 24 hours, during the onset of a new emergency.
* A low–bandwidth version of the site is available, to enable access and exchange of information in poor connectivity environments.
* Information can be categorized as either public or private. This allows sensitive information to be made accessible only to cluster specific working groups.
* Clusters will directly manage their own content on the site.
* OCHA owns the website and is responsible for its management.

2. Who is the target audience for the website?

The primary audience for the website are humanitarian workers at the country level, including Cluster Leads, cluster members, OCHA, UN Common services etc. The secondary audience is global, including the global cluster staff at HQ, cluster members, donors, and OCHA.

3. What is the background to OneResponse?

In order to avoid the multitude of one–off ad hoc websites developed in each new emergency, there was inter–agency consensus in early 2008 that a single website was needed to support the predictable exchange of information in emergencies at the country level.

The inter–agency web platform was first field tested in May 2008 in response to Cyclone Nargis in Myanmar. Since then, OCHA has continued to develop the website based on the requirements and functionalities identified in partnership with the Cluster/ Sector Information Management focal points and Microsoft, as well as lessons learned from both the Myanmar website and www. humanitarianreform.org. OneResponse is the successor to three different OCHA sites: www.humanitarianreform.org, www.human itarianinfo.org, and ochaonline.un.org/fieldoffice, plus numerous ad–hoc non–OCHA sites.

In December 2008, the IASC Working Group requested the IASC Task Force on Information Management develop “an improved inter–agency web–platform to support and manage the exchange of operational information in emergencies, taking into account relevant existing web platforms and avoid duplication of existing agency web based resources”.

4. What is the role of Microsoft?

Microsoft’s collaboration with OCHA on OneResponse is based on a public private partnership initiated in early 2006, to work together on information management and information technology issues in humanitarian response. Building on this partnership, Microsoft committed to developing, hosting and supporting the Inter Agency Website, based on the functional requirements defined by the Clusters and OCHA

5. What is the role of the Clusters/Sectors in the website?

The role of the clusters/sectors is to manage their own content at the global and field level, as well as provide feedback to OCHA on changes they would like made to the website.

6. What is OCHA’s role?

OCHA’s role is to manage the website and ensure that sufficient guidance material and support is provided to the clusters so they can manage their content effectively. The IASC endorsed ‘Operational Guidance on Responsibilities of Cluster/Sector Leads & OCHA in Information Management’ requires OCHA, in collaboration with the clusters, to provide a country–specific or disaster specific humanitarian web–site.

7. How can I learn more about OneResponse?
