Earthquake January 12, 2010

The terrible events in the parts of Haiti most severely damaged have been well publicized. The fears of more of the same in the capital or other parts of Haiti made everyone fearful. The afflictions have been spread all over Haiti since the government encouraged anyone who would return to their original home areas to do so in free government transport. Well over 600,000 people departed the capital area, arriving elsewhere with few possessions to move in with already poor and crowded friends and relatives. This is happening in cities like Gonaives and in mountains areas like Bayonnais. It is the mentally fragile accepting the even worse off PAP folks – many, many strains on housing, food, schools, etc. This brought BIG additional challenges to OFCB, which is responding with aid and food for work programs with support from the U.S. and has received over 50 new students into the school.

Children's Place International

Medical Facility · Open

Gonaives
Web www.childrens–place.org
Serves Gonaives, Limonade, Cap Haitien, and L'Estere
Service Permanent

1/4/11 Email from John Sweeney
In Haiti, we have one facility in Gonaives. It is a transit house that provides a place for individuals living with HIV from rural areas to pass the night going or coming to clinic in Gonaives. It has a nurse and social worker on staff. It is currently not open. It will be open within one month.

The bulk of our programming in Haiti is home visitation. We have 20 staff - para social workers - who support approximately 100 families (440 children) affected by HIV/AIDS in Gonaives, Limonade, Cap Haitien, and L'Estere. In the area of healthcare, we accompany individuals living with HIV to clinic, pay for medications not covered by the clinic, and provide each family with monthly food support. Concerning the cholera epidemic, we have been providing weekly R/O water distributions, soap, oral rehydration salts, education, and accompaniment to clinic of sick individuals. We have had 17 individuals with symptoms consistent with cholera and 2 adult deaths. All but one of these individuals has been in Gonaives or L'Estere.

We also provide other support (school fees/books/uniforms, youth entrepreneurship training, and housing).

HIV Care

Children's Place International

There are more than 2.5 million children living with HIV/AIDS around the world and 90 percent of them are in developing countries. In recognition of the growing international need, Children's Place International was launched in 2007.

The goal of the program is to ensure that children affected by HIV/AIDS have the opportunity to live their lives in fullness and dignity. To achieve this goal, we help families meet their children's physical, psychological, and cognitive developmental needs. This approach, similar to our Chicago–based programs, is based on the philosophy that child development occurs optimally in the presence of loving and nurturing adults.

Children's Place International launched programming in Haiti in January 2008 and we are currently working with the government of Guyana to establish programs.

How the Program Works

Children's Place International works with medical centers and community organizations in each country to identify families affected by HIV/AIDS who are unable to meet the developmental needs of their children. Program staff then reaches out to these families to build relationships in order to understand their needs and create a plan to address them. Needs may be met by the family itself, the community or external resources provided by Children's Place International and donors from the United States.

Also had another report from Clinic Ebenezer who said they were overrun with (cholera) patients and on their last box of saline. Staff have been overwhelmed and they are looking for nurses.

Eben–Ezer Hospital opened its doors to the people of Haïti in 1983. Since then, it has become the hub of a network of about 500 hospitals and health centers throughout the nine Departments (or states) of Haïti.

The group distributes medicine and medical supplies in four ways:

During the last six years, an educational/training program was funded and launched by the United States Agency for International Development (U.S. A.I.D.) under a program known as ED 2004. This program enabled Eben–Ezer to provide health care training in 89 schools in only three of the nine Departments (Artibonite, North, and Northeast). Still, 540 teachers were able to train 24,000 students. Under Eben–Ezer's guidance, the program has developed into a multi–faceted project that has become a vital part of the communities in and near the three Departments where it was launched.
Eben–Ezer has structured a multi–level training project in which women from all nine Departments will be trained to combat sexually transmitted diseases (STDs), by educating the populace on prevention and the importance of early treatment. This project begins with 50 women (ten from Artibonite and five from each of the other eight Departments). Each of these women trains eight other women. Then, 400 women each trains ten others in a series of ten sessions over an 18–month period. In all, 44,000 women will be trained under this project, working under only one coordinator and three trainers. The women are parents of students in Eben–Ezer and other schools and from the churches across Haïti that are affiliated with the Eben–Ezer network.
Eben–Ezer has structured a second training project in which Haïtian young people are organized in a nationwide effort to prevent the spread of STDs through education. Thirty youths attend a ten–day training seminar to become teachers. After a series of three seminars is completed, 90 young men and women will have been trained to be teachers of this program. Each of the 90 teaches 50 students per month in a series of nine monthly training sessions, for a total of 40,500 individuals educated on the prevention, early detection, and treatments of STDs.
Eben–Ezer Hospital is a member of the Association of Hospitals and Health Centers, formed through an initiative of the Gonaïves Regional Office of the Ministry of Public Health. Beginning in 20 communities in upper Artibonite and growing to serve up to 200,000 persons, this outreach program educates young people and adults on the prevention, early detection, and treatment of STDs.
In all, this four–component network is able to educate and distribute medicine and medical supplies to more than 300,000 persons.

The tragedy is that no medication of any kind has been provided for the treatment of HIV or AIDS. Medicines and medical supplies include only small quantities of antibiotics, first aid supplies and headache and fever medications. The provision of medicine and medical supplies is inadequate and inconsistent.

Eben–Ezer Hospital badly needs assistance from individuals and organizations that have access to the medicine and medical supplies that could be so easily distributed to those among the 300,000 persons who need them.
