From the website:

A Flood of Faith: Recovery in the Aftermath
Your community needs your church's help!

The flood water is a memory, but the trauma and disruption are still with us.

Normally, when a disaster strikes a region in most parts of the country local community churches would already have banded together with civic and government agencies to respond to the needs. So far State and Federal agencies are still hoping for that response from the ecumenical and interfaith community.

I suspect we are unique in that we are not used to disasters in our region. Yet, this one has already had more people seeking relief and resources than any other disaster to hit our region in anyone's memory. It's also old news. The poorest and most vulnerable in our population are the hardest hit, but the people registering for assistance cross the spectrum of socioeconomics.

This link (http://www.macucc.org/mission-justice/AFloodofFaithRecoveryintheAftermath.htm) gives you a visual representation of the hardest hit areas from the flooding.

I suspect that without a history of disasters we don't have a memory of best or worst practices. We also don't have ongoing agency connections and relationships to facilitate smooth response with our churches. That leaves us without much experience in the long term work of recovery. That coupled with our region's famous sense of self reliance and independence (read autonomy) adds to the difficulty of bringing help where it is needed through local community efforts. ("What's the big deal…it's just a little water in the basement.")

Currently, 29,500 households have asked for assistance in recovery. Only a small fraction are getting the information they need to follow the proper protocols to get the support, even with all the PSAs, recovery and resource centers,news reports and coaching. And the crucial May 28th deadline for one of the steps in the assistance process is looming. Additionally, in the not too distant future, some of the first responders from the Federal and State agencies will be pulling back. Normally, it is the churches and interfaith community that would be in place to take on the long term recovery work within their community. But that hasn't happened yet.

Our informational flyer advertises a training and coordination event to help local communities organize to bring services to people who have been affected with flood. Please be sure that someone from your church comes to this event.

To find out if you qualify for assistance:

http://www.fema.gov/news/disaster_totals_annual.fema

Choose your state. Choose the button for "Hurricane Irene" or for whatever storm you are interested in. Note that the one for Irene may be under "Emergency Declarations", the second set of declarations. Then choose the button for "designated counties" to see if your county is there. Note the box on the right hand and choose the "tab" for "individual assistance" to see if your county is qualified to receive federal funds for individuals. Note that "Category B" declarations usually don't have any funds available for individuals. Only for towns and cities.

RALEIGH, N.C. –– Community relations teams from the state of North Carolina and the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) are on foot in many storm–damaged counties, delivering recovery information to area residents who had losses from recent storms, tornadoes and flooding. They help storm survivors register for federal disaster assistance. FEMA team members wear FEMA shirts and photo IDs.

Assistance from FEMA could include:

•Temporary housing – money to rent a different place to live.
•Repairs – grants to repair some of the damage from the disaster that is not covered by insurance. •Other needs assistance – grants for necessary and serious needs caused by the disaster. This includes medical, dental, funeral, personal property, transportation, vehicle repair or replacement, moving and storage and other expenses that FEMA approves. Those with losses in the following counties may register with FEMA: Bertie, Bladen, Craven, Cumberland, Currituck, Greene, Halifax, Harnett, Hertford, Hoke, Johnston, Lee, Onslow, Pitt, Robeson, Sampson, Wake and Wilson.

Team members also meet with community–based organizations, community leaders and public officials. When community relations workers learn about unmet needs, they pass the information to the state or federal staff best able to respond.

Affected residents and business owners in the designated counties may apply for assistance by calling FEMA's toll–free registration number, 800–621–FEMA (3362) or TTY 800–462–7585 for those with speech and hearing disabilities. Multilingual operators are available to assist with the application process. Registration lines are available from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. An application may also be completed online by going to www.DisasterAssistance.gov.

Survivors can also apply for federal assistance directly through a web enabled mobile device or smartphone. Visit m.fema.gov and follow the link to “apply online for federal assistance.”

The U.S. Small Business Administration is offering low–interest disaster loans to homeowners and renters as well as business owners. Learn more at 800–659–2955.

SOMERSET, N.J. –– A state/federal Disaster Recovery Center (DRC) in Hainesport Township, Burlington County, is moving to a new location.

The Federal Emergency Management Agency announced the center, located in the Volunteer Fire Company Building at 106 Broad Street in Hainesport Township, will close at 6 p.m. on Thursday, May 27.

At 10 a.m. on Friday, May 28, the DRC reopens at the Community Center, 100 Broad Street, also in Hainesport Twp, N.J. 08036.

At the center, recovery specialists will assist individuals and business owners in Burlington County and other communities who suffered losses and damages from the severe storms and flooding of mid–March.

As of Friday, May 28, the Federal Emergency Management Agency and the State of New Jersey Office of Emergency Management will operate four DRCs. Each DRC is staffed with FEMA, U.S. Small Business Administration and state agency disaster recovery specialists who are ready to help flood survivors through the recovery process.

At the DRC, visitors can:

•Receive information about different types of state and federal disaster assistance.
•Get help completing low–interest loan applications from the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) for homeowners, renters and business owners.

•Inquire about the status of applications for federal assistance.
•Receive referrals to voluntary organizations to help with immediate unmet needs.
•Learn cost–effective mitigation measures to reduce the impact of future disaster losses.
The DRCs will be open from 10 a.m. - 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday until further notice. Closed Sundays.

The locations of the DRCs are as follows:

Burlington County
Community Center
100 Broad Street
Hainesport Twp., NJ 08036

Cumberland County
EOC/Public Safety Building
637 Bridgeton Avenue
Bridgeton, NJ 08302

Ocean County
Brick Township Civic Center
270 Chambersbridge Road, Suite 11
Brick, NJ 08723

Somerset County
Presbyterian Church School Building
409 Mountain Avenue
Bound Brook, NJ 08805

Disaster registrants from any declared county may visit any of the DRC locations for assistance.

Flood survivors are encouraged to register with FEMA before visiting a center.

To register, call FEMA's toll–free number, 1–800–621–FEMA (3362) or TTY/TDD 1–800–462–7585 for people with speech and hearing disabilities (for relay service, call 711 or 1–800–852–7897) between 7 a.m. and 1 a.m., seven days a week. Multi–lingual operators are available to answer calls during this time.

Survivors may also register online anytime at www.disasterassistance.gov.

Receive up to the minute New Jersey disaster recovery information by following us on Twitter at www.twitter.com/femaregion2.

Record flooding swamps Northeast USA - UCC readies response

March in the northeast United States ended as one of the wettest on record, and several days of rain have compounded problems caused by rains last week –– rains that caused flooding in several states.

Reports from United Church of Christ Conferences and Disaster Network Coordinators in Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island indicate a number of UCC church buildings have sustained basement and sub–basement flooding. Thousands of homes and businesses throughout the Northeast - including New Jersey and extending into West Virginia - are flooded.

Duquesne Light Co. reported that approximately 51,000 customers in Allegheny and Beaver counties were without power Saturday morning, with no estimation time on when power would be restored. Allegheny Power estimated about 115,000 of its customers, roughly 87,000 of which were in Pennsylvania, lost power. Many roads were closed, and power lines and trees fell.

For those without power, several warming stations have been set up throughout Allegheny County

The Pine Ridge Sioux Indian Reservation in South Dakota is a inhumanely deplorable condition. A brief summary of the challenges we face here:

Lakotah men have a life expectancy of less than 44 years, lowest of any country in the World (excluding AIDS) including Haiti.
The Lakotah infant mortality rate is 300% more than the U.S. Average.
The rate of diabetes is 800% higher than the U.S national average.
Median income is approximately $2,600 to $3,500 per year.

97% of our Lakotah people live below the poverty line.
Through our R.O.L. Humanitarian Relief organization, a newly founded, soon to be incorporated 501 (C)3 tax–exempt organization, we are providing food, NEW clothing, propane, electricity and firewood to the poor, elderly and handicapped people of the Pine Ridge Sioux Indian Reservation.

2010 Snow & Ice Winter Storm

http://www.episcopalchurch.org/81803_119217_ENG_HTM.htm
February 05, 2010

[Episcopal News Service] Bishop John Tarrant of the Episcopal Diocese of South Dakota has requested emergency disaster relief funds from Episcopal Relief and Development to assist residents affected by winter storms and massive power outages on the Cheyenne River Sioux Reservation.
Ice storms downed an estimated 3,000 utility poles, leaving about 30,000 residents in two communities without water, electricity or heat for at least a week, said Randy Barnhardt, diocesan canon to the ordinary, during a Feb. 5 telephone interview from his Sioux Falls office.

"We are gathering relief funds and have designated Feb. 14 as a day for all the churches in this diocese to help with ice storm relief," he added.

The diocese had been able to disburse about $2,000 for purchase of propane gas for those with propane heaters. "But you can't help 30,000 people with $2,000, so we do the best we can," he said.

Tribal Chairman Joe Brings Plenty declared a state of emergency on the reservation, which is about the size of the state of Connecticut and encompasses 14 Episcopal congregations.

"The loss of electricity has also knocked out the reservation's aging water system," said the tribal chairman, who had also asked the federal government to declare a state of emergency on the reservation. "We have no running water on the entire reservation, it is also affecting reservation communities such as Faith, whose water is supplied from pipes running through the reservation," he added.

For Immediate Release

Eagle Butte, SD (January 30, 2010) – The Cheyenne River Reservation located in the State of South Dakota, homeland of the Cheyenne River Sioux Tribe, is currently facing an emergency situation due to an ice storm that crippled the electrical and water infrastructure. Though the ice storm has passed, the water and power system remains challenged and several Reservation communities have been without power for over ten (10) days. Moreover, a bitterly cold weather system is expected to come in by Sunday evening.

Therefore, the Tribe continues to operate an Emergency Operations Center (EOC) to coordinate communications, relief efforts, and resource distribution
...
Any resulting sewage or pipe damage from the breakdown in the water system should be reported to the Emergency Operations Center
...
Emergency shelters in Eagle Butte, Cherry Creek, La Plant, Swiftbird, Red Scaffold, Takini, Bear Creek, Timber Lake, and Whitehorse have been converted into Emergency Shelter/Distribution Centers
...
The Low–Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) has been opened up for business for all qualifying residents of the Reservation. Please call the office directly to address your energy needs.
... Indian Health Service Ambulance Service and will direct callers to the new phone number for the EOC. For all other emergencies such as medical or law enforcement emergencies, please call 911.

Press Release – January 27, 2010

DISASTER DECLARED ON THE CHEYENNE RIVER SIOUX INDIAN RESERVATION IN SOUTH DAKOTA

Severe Ice Storms and Freezing Temperatures Have Knocked Down 3,000 Utility Poles – Tribal Residents Have Been without Electricity, Heat, and Running Water for Six Days The Chairman of the Cheyenne River Sioux Tribe has declared a state of emergency in central South Dakota, an Indian reservation approximately the size of Connecticut with nearly 15,000 Tribal members. The Tribe is still awaiting a Presidential disaster declaration. Days of ice storms and strong winds have downed over 3,000 utility poles across the reservation. Thousands of already impoverished tribal residents have been without electricity or heat for five days, with wind chill factors well below zero. Experts estimate it may be as long as a month before all areas have electricity restored. "Making matters much worse" said Tribal Chairman Joe Brings Plenty, "the loss of electricity has also knocked out the Reservation's aging water system. We have no running water on the entire Reservation, it is also affecting off Reservation communities such Faith, whose water is supplied from pipes running through the Reservation." The Tribe is working hard to bring families in out of the cold into shelters. The South Dakota National Guard, the State's Department of Public Safety as well as the Army Corps of Engineers have come to the reservation and supplied some emergency generators
