3/10/10 ANNOUNCEMENT:

Relief for Haiti joined with Do Your Part is collecting craft materials and school supplies for earthquake impacted Haitian children in Carrefour and Leogane. Summer Camp will be put on for 200–500 children and large military style tents are needed to shelter the kids and operate the camp. They'll get educational, fun games and craft activities, a meal and snacks to keep them busy and healthy all summer long. This is likely the only meal many of these children will have. Some of the staff are medical perssonel so they will also get medical attention when/where needed. Funds are needed to give the teachers that have been unemployed due to the quake and to purchase supplies. We'll have donation collection site information on hand soon (TBA).

Thanks for helping make this happen!

Leslie Teltoe, Schlene Boundy with Do Your Part/Citizen Action Team Relief Database and Gary Remy from Relief for Haiti

FROM THE SITE:

Aid is on the way

A couple of weeks after the earthquake, we spoke to a couple of folks in Haiti. The situation was even direr than what we were seeing on television. The relief and rescue focus has been on Port–Au–Prince; however, the entire country has been affected, some areas are just worse than others.

Considerable damages have been done in cities as far as Jacmel, Ti Goave, Leogane (approx 20 to 75 miles away). Unfortunately, help has not yet reached those who are not in the immediate vicinity of Port–Au–Prince.

The rescue workers are focusing on finding survivors who are potentially still alive under the rubble.

Aid is pouring in, but logistically it's been a nightmare to move about where help is truly needed. According to our sources in Port–Au–Prince, most of the cargo and personnel are at a standstill at the Airport and Ports, due to a lack of coordination or absence of any local government officials. Most of the government infrastructure were either destroyed or badly damaged..

After almost a month, help is still slow in reaching some folks in the southern part of Port–Au–Prince. In Leogane in particular, 95% of the houses have either collapsed or sustained vast damages. My sister France, who is a nurse that barely escaped death, along with a local hospital in the area, were the first to provide some medical assistance to the wounded in Leogane. One cousin who was teaching in a class room at the time of the earthquake, was badly wounded and unfortunately died in my sister’s arms.

Relief For Haiti, Inc will take a team to Haiti. Our goal is to provide whatever assistance possible based upon the financial support we receive from your donations.

The most pressing need is money to pay for temporary lodging, food, and other basic necessities.

As far as we know at this point in time, there are still no commercial flights in and out of the area. The US Army has taken control of the airport. Only aid and supply planes/cargo are allowed to come in and out of Port–Au–Prince.

We may have to fly into the Dominican Republic and make the several hour trip by car into Port–Au–Prince.

It's all about survival

Folks are still camping and sleeping outside. Soccer fields and open areas are filled with displaced families. Kids, without parents, are roaming the streets, feeling dazed and confused. Poor sanitation is a major problem. Vomiting and diarrhea are on the rise. Some badly wounded have died while still awaiting medical attention.

I spoke to my cousin, Frantzy, who sleeps in the front yard of his friend's collapsed house. The main worry now is rain. After three weeks, those living outside have been fortunate that the weather has been cooperative and remained dry. However, with spring on the way, the rains are sure to come.

People are avoiding going inside some of the damaged buildings, for fear that they can still crumble at any minute. Habitants of Port–Au–Prince and surrounding areas are experiencing multiple aftershocks daily, some as high as 6.0.

The Earthquake: a perspective

After the cleanup is done, what’s next? Is Port–Au–Prince going to remain a city in ruins, haunted by diseases and bandits?

There are talks at the present, by international countries, spearheaded by France and the United States, to rebuild Haiti. The issue with that is Haiti was never properly built in the first place. The basic infrastructure such as, the water system, sewage, electricity, was nonexistent or impractical for more than fifty years. "Building Code" is a foreign context to Haitian authorities. At the current state of the Haitian Government, they do not have the capacity to manage billions of dollars in aid to Haiti. Based on the records, millions of dollars in aid could never be properly managed in the first place. The building or rebuilding effort has to come from outside management with local and foreign contractors.

The silver lining is the potential for jobs to be pouring into Haiti for the construction or reconstruction. We could see a new Haiti with a new Port–Au–Prince, where tourism flourishes again. Law and order could be restored along with accountability and responsibility from the government officials.

Recommendations:

Relief For Haiti believes in the "Decentralization" of Port–Au–Prince.

The immediate relocation of victims to other surrounding cities or to the outskirts of Port–Au–Prince, by providing sanitary and descent temporary housing.

A near future solution is to bring jobs to the folks in the countryside. International investors should take advantage of the availability of a workforce of millions, ready and eager to get back on their feet and restore their pride.

The earthquake struck poor and wealthy alike. Building codes have to be implemented and enforced. No more should the government allow unsafe squatters everywhere including those poorly built houses perched on the side of the mountains surrounding Port–Au–Prince.

Relief For Haiti – Plan for the future

Prior to the earthquake, the focus of the Organization was on the City of Leogane, a rural area 18 miles south of Port–au–Prince, Haiti. Due to its location (gateway to the southern parts of Haiti), we wanted to start the building projects there. Now that 95% of Leogane's infrastructure has been destroyed, our mission is still to move forward with:

The contruction of Schools, Medical clinics and nutritional programs.

Now more than ever we need your help to prepare Haitian kids for a brighter future by giving them access to good schools and teaching them a viable trade. Too many young lives are being wasted away, even before the devastating earthquake hit on the 12th of January 2010.

50% of the Haitian population is under the age of 18. Our endeavour will alleviate the burden on the poor Haitian families and on the United States' immigration and economy.

Myself , along with many other Haitian kids, were raised in part by the American missionaries, Brother and Sister Thomas Brumley. The Brumleys came to Haiti as teens, in the early seventies, to start an orphanage for boys, in the Delmas (a suburban city north of Port–Au–Prince). They thought us English, the Bible, and other vocational skills such as: woodworking, carpentry, tailoring, and music. By the time we were adults, we were ready to face the future on our own. The opportunities I have today were direct result of their actions, which is also part of the reason that I am the Chairman of Relief For Haiti, Inc.

Other missionaries from around the world had the same desire to leave their lives in their respective countries to go to Haiti where they established schools and other charitable programs to help Haitian kids.

Why we exist as an Organization?

We formed Relief For Haiti, Inc. as a way to give back. We want to give to Haitian kids the same opportunities we had growing up. Haiti needs to be rebuilt. This time, we want to see it done properly and Relief For Haiti, Inc wants to be part of that rebuilding process because it is our duty as Haitians.

Keep us in your thoughts and prayers as we are trying to help those in need to take the difficult road to recovery.

Please support us!

Thank you…

World Cares Center Update from Les Anglais
Wednesday, January 12, 2011 5:31 PM
From: "Lisa Orloff"
To: "'haiti-epidemic-advisory-system@googlegroups.com'" <haiti-epidemic-advisory-system@googlegroups.com>, "Lorey Campese", "Communications (World Cares Center)"

Thank you to all those that responded to my request for information today (they were looking for Albuterol for a little girl).

Our team provided 140 medical check ups today working to support the hospital in Les Anglais.

As we were treating the general population, MSF supported by UNICEF treated the cases of Cholera in a tent outside the hospital.

We were able to provide MSF with Cholera medications in support of their efforts.

Today they had two Cholera deaths.

We are making our way back to continue our mobile clinics in Leogane, Ti Goave, St Marcs, Delmas and Petionville.

Anyone in need of extra supplies and can meet us in any of those locations please let me know.

Also if you have a Cholera Clinic in the area please advise.

Thank you again for your help today,
Lisa

Greetings,

DRT is setting up a Hurricane Isaac relief effort at the Slidell Church of Christ in Slidell, LA today. There are over 500 homes that have been flooded just in the Slidell area near the church building. Volunteers are needed immediately for clean up – chain saw work – muck and gut, distribution, intake, data entry, cooking, etc. immediately. Housing will be provided at the Slidell church building. Air mattresses, showers and 3 daily meals are provided by DRT.

We anticipate having several locations and will be working on beginning an effort in New Orleans as soon as the roads are passable. Please check the website for updates.

To volunteer, please register on the DRT website: www.churchesofchristdrt.org

Funding is urgently needed as well.. this will help with transportation of tool trailers, shower trailer, mobile kitchen and supply trailer. It will also be used to help the Hurricane survivors with immediate basic needs items as well as building material for those without/under insured. Over 3,000 nutritious home cooked meals can be served each day out of the DRT mobile kitchen. Although the cost as well as prep time is more than just serving sandwiches, etc. we feel very strongly that the meals we serve be nutritious as well as delicious. The comments we've received from those who've benefitted from these meals include things such as…"thank you for allowing us to keep our dignity by serving meals that better than even better than we could get in a restaurant".

TO DONATE – Donations can be made through PayPal on the DRT website or sent by postal mail to:

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Shelter Volunteers needed in New Brunswick, New Jersey to fill shifts NOW!!
World Cares Center Assists NYC and NJ in Hurricane Sandy Response

NEW YORK-NEW JERSEY (October 29, 2012) – As hurricane Sandy bears down on the Tri-State region, World Cares Center (WCC) is coordinating unaffiliated volunteers and volunteer groups who wish to help. Unaffiliated volunteers are those who wish to help but are not part of a pre-established group ahead of time. Currently there is an urgent need for volunteers to assist Shelter Operations in New Brunswick NJ for morning shifts.

World Cares Center provides two online briefings daily, "Disaster Volunteering" and "Disaster Management for Grassroots Leaders" Both events can be accessed through the WCC website at: www.worldcares.org<http://www.worldcares.org>.

In addition, online applications, information on volunteering can be found at www.worldcares.org<http://www.worldcares.org>.

Organizations needing volunteers can access request through the "get involved" section of the website.

World Cares Center, formed in the aftermath of September 11, 2001 is a critical organization for the emergency response community, providing training programs for community leaders to organize volunteers in times of crisis. WCC also trains grassroots organizations and individual citizens with specialized emergency preparedness programs for seniors and youth. WCC's training and volunteer coordination efforts and cleanup were instrumental to the recovery from Hurricane Irene.

Hurricane Sandy update – Newsletter dated 10/26/12 (LT):

Dear Friend and World Cares Center Supporter,

I am writing to you with a sense of urgency as Hurricane Sandy is on its way. In 2011-2012 World Cares Center was called upon to coordinate volunteers and volunteer groups across the state of New Jersey to muck out survivors homes and help them reclaim their lives from Hurricane Irene. There were not enough groups to help so our teams trained local groups and led them into the field. All total, together we helped 1220 of the neediest residents and reclaimed over 600 homes. The work continues still.

The irony is that WCC received no funds to do this work and we will be hard pressed to help again without funding. We have a small, highly effective and passionate team that is an integral part of the relief effort and they need your support.

I am calling on our long time partners who know who we are and what we do. Our partners who know that more than 85% of the money we raise goes to our programs. Our supporters get pictures and reports from the field telling them where their dollars are being put to good use. If you or your company will be donating to help those affected by Hurricane Sandy I implore you to consider donating even a small portion of those dollars to World Cares Center.

Thank you for you kind consideration and continued support.

NEWSLETTER DATED 8/29/11:

We hope that you and your family are safe and that your homes have weathered the storm. Over the past few days, Hurricane/ Tropical Storm Irene ripped across the eastern United States from North Carolina to Vermont, including New York City and the Tri–State Area. As these events unfolded, we at World Cares Center witnessed the tremendous human spirit and resilience displayed by residents in New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut. World Cares Center has played an active role working with its fellow Relief agencies including local, state, and federal emergency management authorities who have activated plans, conducted evacuations when necessary, and sheltered tens of thousands of people and trained volunteers to help. The collaboration, coordination, and resiliency act as an inspiration and we extend our sincere thanks all of those who are helping.

World Cares Center's "just in time" training has been offered throughout the weekend to prepared managers to set up reception centers and screen and manage spontaneous volunteer in a safe and effective manner. We have coordinated volunteers to support our partners efforts and will work with NJ211 and the NJ Governor’s office of Volunteerism to match the incoming calls requesting help with organizations that will deploy to provide assistance. This is an important coordinative role that World Cares Center is familiar with from September 11, 2001 to Haiti 2010 and we are honored to be serving in this capacity. We remain active with our New York partners as well.

Although Irene may have passed, much remains to be done. Hundreds of roads are closed in the Tri–State area, thousands of buildings and homes have basements and ground level floors that remain flooded, and inland flooding is expected to be a major ongoing problem for New Jersey in the coming days. As we continue to strive toward promoting a safe and effective recovery alongside volunteers and voluntary organizations, World Cares Center asks that you stay informed and determine what role you have in the recovery effort. If you are interested in organizing a training for your group or being a part of a regional or national training, please contact us at via e–mail at lcampese @ worldcares.org or by calling 212–563–7570 .

Best Regards,
Lisa Orloff and The World Cares Center Team

World Cares Center empowers communities to work toward their own disaster preparedness and long–term recovery by:

• Collaborating with community–based organizations to provide educational and resilience–building services to communities preparing for and recovering from disasters, emergencies and trauma;
• Working with Homeland Security leadership, emergency managers and relief agencies to effectively integrate and utilize Spontaneous Unaffiliated Community Volunteers (SUCVs) into their disaster response plans;
• Preparing SUCVs to safely and effectively contribute to local emergency response; and
• Supporting long–term recovery and resiliency in communities affected by disaster.

WCC implements its vision of community preparedness and resilience through the work of its Disaster Preparation and Trauma Mitigation (DPTM) program. WCC has provided training and supportive services to more than 40,000 individuals affected by disaster.

The DPTM program provides volunteer management and self–care training for the entire responder community. WCC addresses a gap in training and support by working specifically with SUCVs and the emergency managers who utilize them. Since 2001, WCC has lent its unique perspective to the local, state and national Voluntary Organizations Active in Disaster (VOAD) as well as the Human Services Council in efforts to further gain support and understanding of this crucial aspect of disaster response. The actual preparation of individuals who may help in their neighborhoods and the manner in which official agencies look at managing this resource is critical to having the best possible relief effort.
Trainings and workshops have been presented nationwide including efforts in:

• Alexandria, VA
• Baton Rouge, LA
• Bloomington, IL
• Chicago, IL
• Fort Lauderdale, FL
• Harrisburg, PA
• New York, NY
• New Orleans, LA
• Oklahoma City, OK
• Paramus, NJ
• Raleigh, NC
• San Diego, CA
• Washington, DC

Seminars have included:
• Forums for Communities for a Resilient Future (operated jointly with Oklahoma's National Memorial Institute for the Prevention of Terrorism),
• Leading and Managing Spontaneous Community Volunteers in Response to Terrorism and Disaster (presented to members of NYC–OEM, Chicago OEM, Salvation Army, and American Red Cross)
• Self–Care Modular
• Disaster Volunteering.

In addition, WCC is among the agencies selected by NYC–OEM to staff Volunteer Disaster Centers in the event of an emergency. Major efforts were extended in New Orleans to help support the communities devastated by Hurricane Katrina. International consultation has also been provided to communities in Bermuda and New Zealand.

All of World Cares Center's efforts are underscored by our lessons learned from 9/11, the Gulf Coast hurricanes, and other disasters. The World Cares Center board, advisors and partners (including FEMA, NYC–OEM, American Red Cross, National Memorial Institute for the Prevention of Terrorism, and members of the New York City Fire and Police Departments) lend expertise and guide program development. Based upon the recommendations of WCC's advisors, DPTM continually improves its approaches to volunteer preparation and management, and responder self–care.

The relationships and lessons learned developed through World Cares Center's September Space program live on through our Disaster Preparation and Trauma Mitigation program.
The September Space experience has been monographed and is now shared through the Leading and Managing III training under the Disaster Preparation and Trauma Mitigation program. The September Space Community resiliency center model has been shared nationally, most recently with the committee developing the "Welcome Home Centers" in New Orleans.
