People who lost their homes in another hard hit Pike County community, Johns Creek, say clean–up and rebuilding will take months or longer.

Even firefighters helping with relief efforts suffered losses.

At Blackburn Bottom the damage to homes is estimated tens of thousands of dollars.

Just down the road, the Johns Creek Fire Department lost a truck and lots of equipment, but that is not stopping them from helping people here who need them.

Hundreds of flood victims in Johns Creek are cleaning out their houses and throwing away everything inside.

“It's just a total loss, everything we've got,” Michael Thacker said.

Dozens on Blackburn Bottom even lost entire homes.

“It's just been a nightmare for all of us around,” Shirley Bolden said.

The nightmare continues at the Johns Creek Fire Department.

Flood water inside destroyed their pumper truck and other equipment.

The losses do not stop firefighters' relief efforts.

They are loading food and cleaning supplies in the truck they have left and taking it to flood victims.

“Been so busy helping the community, we just haven't took time to stop and take care of our own stuff. The community to us comes first, and we try to help them as much as possible,” Jason Parsons, Johns Creek Firefighter, said.

“Oh we appreciate them. We appreciate their help and everything they've done for us,” Bolden said.

Flood victims say the daily deliveries help get them through the day.

“It makes a difference knowing you've got something to eat and help with. Hopefully they can keep it up and help us get through this,” Thacker said.
Johns Creek Firefighters say they will continue deliveries as long as the people need it.

People here say it will take a long time to get their homes back to where they can live in them again.

The Johns Creek Fire Department does have insurance to cover the destroyed truck and equipment.

Clean–up also continues at Johns Creek Elementary School, where they lost everything in the basement.

Pikeville Animal Shelter Gets Help from Tennessee Save Email Print

PIKEVILLE, Ky. (WSAZ) –– A group of animal advocates from Tennessee drove to Pikeville, Kentucky this weekend to offer help for the flooded–out animal shelter.

The shelter closed last week due to flooding in the area. The animals are staying with foster families in the interim.

The founder of the Lab and All Breed Rescue Network, Gina Austin led a group of people in hauling a horse trailer full of pet supplies from Brighton, Tennessee to Pikeville.

In a news release Monday, Austin said, "I had the access and means to obtaining these resources, which were donated from communities in Mississippi as well as the Greater Memphis area. We wanted to get these supplies here to Pike County to help these animals who have also been affected by this disaster.”

Pike County Deputy Judge/Executive John Doug Hays says the damage to the shelter was caused by a mine blowout. Hays says the Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement inspected the area, made the call and will work to seal or drain the mine workings. It has also been included on the FEMA disaster declaration.

URGENT.....The Pike County Animals Shelter is currently closed due to a significant mud slide that destroyed our supply building with all foods, litter and several cages and equipment. The isolation building and kennels also sufeered significant damage. Rescues are encouraged to help. All animals are currently in foster homes and the shelter is not taking animals in during the cleanup period. Rescues please contact us if you can take animals. All pets available at the shelter are not listed. If you don't see your perfect pet please contact us or stop by, he/she may be here waiting for you!!!!
